I think these young officers should try a great many more mag. cases. There is no better way of learning the language & the ways of the people

Yes a trial of mag. cases & examination of village accounts are the matters which the attention of young civilians should be chiefly directed to ORDER. 8th August 1895 No 675.

Recorded.

2. It is observed that Mr. Thompson tried only 5 magisterial cases and Mr. Harris only three.

The Government considers that a far larger number of cases might with advantage be tried by young assistants, whose time should be principally devoted to this kind of work and the examination of village accounts.
