SIR,

I have the honour to solicit instructions
on the following case:—Mr. N. J. Pope, Asst collector, Mangalore who was permitted to appear for the Higher Standard Examination
at Madras fell ill at the end of his Examination and was compelled to go into the Hospital from 9 to 20 January 1896 returning to Mangalore on the 6 February 1896. He requests that the period of absence from duty may be treated as privilege leave.
I am doubtful whether in this case the privilege leave (to the grant of which relieve the Government have no objection)

should commence from the date following that on which his Examination ended
or after an allowance for "reasonable time"
C of article 316(b) of the Civil Service Regulations.

2. I presume that the fact of privilege
leave intervening will not prejudice
his claim to Travelling allowance
under article 1226 Civil Service Regulations.

FOR ORDERS.

The Accountant General solicits the order of this Government on the following point.

Mr. P. J. Pope, Assistant Collector, South Canara, who came to Madras last January in order to appear for the Higher Standard Examination fell ill after the Examination was over and was in the General Hospital from the 9th to the 20th January 1896, returning to Mangalore on the 6th February 1896. He requested that the period of his absence might be treated as privilege leave. Mr. Pope was eligible for the privilege leave applied for but the Accountant General is doubtful whether the leave should be reckoned as commencing from the date following that on which his examination concluded or after an allowance for "reasonable time" under which is contemplated in Article 316 (b) of the C.S.R. has been made. The Accountant General has also raised the question whether the grant of privilege leave would prejudice Mr. Pope's claim to travelling allowance under article 1226 of the C.S.R. As Mr. Pope is shortly proceeding, or has already proceeded, on furlough on Medical certificate the present question does not now affect his eligibility for privilege leave in the future.

There are in this particular case no data on which to calculate "reasonable time". In the case of an officer returning to duty after presenting himself at an examination, a day or two would probably be sufficient to allow as "reasonable time" unless he happened to travel by sea and had to wait for a steamer. Submitted that Mr. Pope's leave should commence from the day on which he went into hospital and that the grant of privilege leave should not prejudice his claim to travelling allowance, which he would have drawn if he had not fallen ill.

The following order is submitted for approval:-

ORDER

The Government considers that Mr. Pope's privilege leave should be held to have commenced on the day on which he entered the General Hospital and that the grant of privilege leave should not prejudice his claim to travelling allowances under Article 1836.
