PENSION DEPARTMENT.

READ—again G.O., No. 1508, Pension, dated 26th November 1894.

—also the file of replies received from Heads of Departments to G.O., No. 1508, Pension, dated 26th November 1894.

ORDER—No. 345, Pension, dated 7th May 1896.

In the Government Order read above, Heads of Departments were requested to report their opinion as to whether any menial servants should be "admitted to the Pension list." The Accountant-General now points out that the call for information was incorrectly worded, inasmuch as service which is purely manual has, ceteris paribus, as much claim to pension as other service unless it has been specially declared to be non-pensionable under Article 382 of the Civil Service Regulations.

2. The replies received from the several Heads of Departments are moreover for the most part couched in such general terms that it is impossible for Government, with the information before it, to lay down any rules as to the exclusion of menial servants from pensionary privileges. It is therefore necessary to call for further particulars and Heads of Departments will accordingly be requested to submit statements showing:—

- (i) the several classes of menial servants employed in their departments;
- (ii) the rates of pay drawn by such servants; and
- (iii) their specific recommendations, accompanied with full reasons, for the grant, withdrawal or retention of pensionary privileges in the case of such servants.
