I cannot concur in the proposed order, the effect of which is to pass over without remark the case of a military officer reporting himself sick when ordered to return from civil to military duty. The Medical Board has recommended the grant of one year's sick leave to the officer, but it has not granted him an emergent medical certificate. There is nothing, therefore, to show that he was unable to return to military duty first, obtaining sick leave afterwards if necessary. The matter is not, however, in my opinion one for final disposal in this or any other manner by this Government. The character of a military officer being affected, the circumstances should have been reported to the Military authorities for disposal.

④ Release SUBJECT.

This to a certain extent answers a Question I asked one petitioner for leave for minutes ago ⁽⁴⁾ that I still feel something and how, if R. Adams was not ill because the need of R. to give him an employed certificate, his neglect to proceed on military duty when ordered can be justified in the absence of fuller info, it seems to me a very suspicious case, such as it is reported to the military authorities.

Submitting an application from Surgeon-Major C. Adams, District
Medical and Sanitary Officer, Madura, of Government.

I doubt if such a report would be of any avail. I Adams can shelter him self under the medical certificate. I have no means of knowing that the integrity of Dr. Adams' certificate was. The Med. Bd. apparently did not consider it ambiguous one - they however

Note by the Honble Sir H.W.

 I perceive that the forwarding letter & other documents in this case are signed by Dr Adams. Now, it must be a fortnight since he reported sick when ordered to return to military duty and it must be nearly as long since the Surg: Genl personally assured me that he was sick and had been so declared by a medical board. I should like to know how it is he is still in charge of the duties of DM & S. O of Madras as I have said before this officer ought either to go on sick leave or be sent before a Court martial for malingering. I do not at all understand how he comes still to be on duty in the Civil department.

I think the Medical Certificate is sufficient. There may be many cases of sickness, or "in-pat", or will justify a man in thinking he ought not to undertake fraternal duty.

28

22/11/97

But who said anything about "fraternal duty"? Dr. Adams of the then has been ordered to return to military duty & to report themselves at Bombay, or, I must be. I don't know that one of them has been ordered to the front. I don't know. Colleague seems to have mistaken the position. However, the case is not of what a man thinks - but of what the med. Bd. and his superiors think. His superior

I will not, as far as I am

I think ~~as~~ whatever the decision as to future proceedings regarding Adams may be, that we may telegraph at once sanctioning the action.

Dr. Adams at the last of times is as head (he was Dr. S. O. in Timmely) - far from as orders have been given in the subject, stating that Dr. Adams has been permitted to leave our charge to Asst. Surgeon in anticipation of sanction of foot. This is unnecessary for the H. P. S. to see this.

Hon Sir Henry Bliss K.C.I.E. ORDER. No. 1313 dt 5 Oct '97

(As above by order)

Leave granted.

with reference to the ~~under~~ article 896 C.S.R.

Surgeon Major Adams will be

Minute.

I cannot concur in the proposed order, the effect of which is to pass over without remark the case of a military officer reporting himself sick when ordered to return to military duty. The Medical Board has recommended the grant of one year's sick leave to the officer, but it has not granted him an emergent medical certificate. There is nothing, therefore, to show that he was unable to return to military duty first, obtaining sick leave afterwards if necessary. The matter is not, however, in my opinion one for final disposal in this or any other manner by this Government. The character of a military officer being affected, the circumstances should have been reported to the Military authorities for disposal.
