To

The Chief Secretary

C. No. 1990

SUBJECT.

Address to Her Majesty
the Queen Empress

FOR ORDERS.

The address from the Kammalas is submitted for order with ref to India's telegram recorded in G.O. N° 641 Pubd/25.5.97 requiring local posts to ^{transmit} ~~transmit~~ addresses before forwarding to India.

Para 3 of the address makes reference to the "Bill" to ameliorate the condition of the Kammalas, which is now under reference, and which the address states "fails as yet to receive proper attention".

The "address" can hardly be regarded as a congratulatory one - for it contains a complaint that a measure proposed by them has not yet received proper attention and contains a request that their interests may be looked with special care in the future.

Orders with regard to this measure were passed in G.O. No 466 dated 27.4.95. The Secretary now asks that it may go on to the Governor of India. It will have to be returned him as new to be Section Rules being complied with.

The "address" contains nothing which one can call objectionable I think but at the same time it cannot I submit be considered a congratulatory one. The congratulatory part of it is made a prelude to bring a grievance and a request.
