GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

PUBLIC DEPARTMENT.

READ—the following paper :—

From A. REA, Esq., Superintendent, Archæological Survey, Madras, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Bangalore, 24th June 1897, No. 103.

With reference to G.O., No. 369, Public, dated 8th May 1893, and in continuation of G.O., No. 757, Public, dated 21st July 1896, I have the honour to submit the annual report of the Archæological Survey for the year 1896-97.

2. As mentioned at the beginning of last year's report, a commencement had then been made with the survey of the second of the great temples of Trichinopoly, that at Srirangam. The work there was proceeded with and completed this season. The temple is one of the most extensive and well known in Southern India and needs no detailed description here. It stands in seven immense enclosures, within which are contained many streets of shops and houses of the inhabitants. It embodies a large amount of fine and varied examples of its style of architecture. It was founded by the Chola Kings and afterwards greatly enlarged by the Nayaka Rulers of Madura.

3. A number of places around Trichinopoly were visited, and notes were made and work done where necessary. Among these is Wooyakondan Tirumalai and Melambil. The former has a large Siva temple with many ancient Tamil inscriptions. At the latter is a Chola temple dedicated to Vishnu. Other places, where some work was done, are Pitchandarkoil, Tiruppanelli, Tiruverambur, Tirupalathorai and Kovasilam.

4. I had information of an interesting discovery having been made during some alterations to the Local Fund chattram at Nidamangalam, a station on the South Indian Railway. Some underground rooms, not hitherto known, had been opened out. The building has some fine arcades and domes, with ornamental brickwork in the style of the Tanjore Raja's mattam, which stands midway on the road from Tanjore to Avadayarkoil. This building is said to have formerly been a palace of one of the Ranis of Tanjore.

5. On completion of the survey at Trichinopoly, the camp was moved to Conjeeveram. The place is a city of temples, dating from the earliest to the latest times, and including examples of Pallava, Chola and Dravidian architecture. In the latter style, the temples are especially numerous. The two largest and most important were being surveyed. The work even at these two is of great extent and will have to be resumed next season. It will not be necessary to survey the lesser temples, though any specially interesting features they may contain will be noted.

6. A volume on Chalukyan Architecture, being No. XXI of the Imperial Series of Archæological Survey reports, was published during the year. The book was wholly produced at Madras, the letter-press being printed at the Government Press and the plates at the Madras Survey office.

7. The manuscript and plates of another volume, on the Monumental Remains of the Dutch East India Company, were completed and submitted to Government. The manuscript was sent to be printed at the Government Press. The plates could not be produced at the Madras Survey office owing to press of other work there. Enquiries were being made to have them done elsewhere.

8. The office photographic camera, which had become dilapidated by the effects of climate and long continued use, and had lately given unsatisfactory results, was replaced by another. A stock list was kept in office.

From A. REA, Esq., Superintendent, Archaeological Survey, Madras, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Bangalore, 9th July 1897, No. 106.

In continuation of my letter, No. 104, dated 1st July 1897, I have the honour to forward a packet containing 24 photographs.

2. The delay in having them ready was due to some articles not being readily procurable in Madras and their having consequently to be got from Bombay. The extremely hot weather in Madras also made it almost impossible to do the printing by the bromide process; a few hours' work could be done in the mornings only. As it was, three negatives have been unfavourably affected by adhering film, &c., and I have consequently omitted them from the list. I would therefore request that the enclosed list might be substituted for that appearing in my report No. 103, dated 24th June 1897.

The photographs are decidedly better than they were last year but that is saying much for them. Mr. Foster has been good enough to look at them for me and has pointed out some serious <sup>photographic</sup> blunders in them. I.S. photographing what should be in relief with the light in the wrong direction
and so throwing it into shadow
