Proceedings of the Madras Government, Revenue Department, for the month of April 1860.

No. 6 .

PROCEEDINGS OF THE MADRAS GOVERNMENT.

Dated 11th April 1860, No. 556.

Paragraph 1. In 1855 the Government considered the subject of creating the grade of Deputy Collector; and they then fixed on 60 as the proper number of such officers to meet the requirements of the service. Since that period, however, some changes have occurred which render it practicable, and even desirable, to reduce the number.

2. The circumstances referred to are the following :

1st. The large reduction about to be carried into effect in the numbers of Tálúqs. In 1855 the number was 243; but when the arrangements in progress are completed, it will be only 159 or possibly 158, being a reduction of more than one-third.

2nd. The power proposed to be given to Tahsildárs by the new Revenue Code to decide certain civil disputes; which, formerly, they could not do, though it was the practice to require them to take the evidence and report it for the Collector's decision.

3rd. The power to distrain and sell personal property for arrears without a reference to the Collector, which will be vested in Tahsildárs when the new Code becomes Law.

4th. The large criminal powers which will be given to Tahsildárs as Magisterial Officers, by the new Code of procedure.

5th. The transfer of the management of the Police from the Tahsildárs to a separate Department.

6th. The entire disappearance of the numerous investigations connected with Ináms, which will be the result of the settlement now proceeding under the Inám Commission.

3. All these changes will diminish the necessity for Deputy Collectors over the Tahsildárs; the first by so much lessening the number of Tahsildárs, and all the remainder by diminishing the occasions for reference by Tahsildárs to superior authority.

4. The diminution in the number of Deputy Collectors will set free funds which the Government think may be very advantageously employed to raise the pay of the Tahsildárs, which in the opinion of the Government is put too low in Mr. Pelly's scheme. This class of servants are of the first importance to a good administration; since, if ability and honesty can only be obtained in the Tahsildár, they will be to a great extent secured in his subordinates.

5. The following detail will show what funds may be made available from the pay of the Deputy Collectors, and how these may be applied to augment the pay of Tahsildárs.

6. It appears to Government that 48 Deputy Collectors will be sufficient for all purposes, viz. :—

7. Kurnool and Trichinopoly are included among the nine Districts, because, though not very large Districts, they have no Sub-Collectors. The six Deputy Collectors to be employed on special duties are for the following five Districts :—

Nellore; one for the Venkatagiri Zamindári;
North Arcot; one for Calástri and Cávetnuggar;
Madura; one for Ramnad and Sivaganga;
Salem; one for the Shivaroy Hills;
Malabar; two for Wainád.

*Proceedings of the Madras Government, Revenue Department,
for the month of April 1860.*

8. Taking the number of forty eight as sufficient on the whole, with, possibly, some variations in the distribution, and classifying them as to pay in the same proportions as the sixty now sanctioned, the monthly saving will amount, including Establishments, to 5,350 Rupees as shown below.

| Class.                              | Rate of pay. | Existing sanction. |            | Proposed scheme. |            | Saving. |

| Total.....                          |              |                    | 23,750     | ...              | 19,000     | 4,750   |
| Establishments.....                 |              |                    | 3,000      | ...              | 2,400      | 600     |
| Total including Establishments..... |              |                    | 26,750     | ...              | 21,400     | 5,350   |

The saving in Establishments will in all probability be more than the sum above set down, because a large proportion of the Deputy Collectors are to be stationed at the District Treasuries where they will need very little additional Establishment.

9. The salaries proposed to be assigned to Tahsildárs in Mr. Pelly's scheme are as follows:

|                                   |       |
|-----------------------------------|-------|
|                                   | Rs.   |
| 36 Tahsildárs @ 200 Rs. each..... | 7,200 |
| 54 do „ 160 „ „ .....             | 8,640 |
| 71 do „ 120 „ „ .....             | 8,520 |

Total 161 24,360

Not only the third rate of pay in this scheme is too low for an Officer in the important position of Tahsildár, but the number at the highest rate is too small compared with the numbers at the lower rates.

10. From a list of the new Tálúqs obtained from Mr. Pelly it appears that there will be seven Tálúqs yielding a revenue of above 5 lakhs of Rupees yearly, of which five are in Tanjore, one in Tinnevely, and one in Malabar. There are also about 20 others yielding above three lakhs.

11. The Government are of opinion that officers entrusted with the yearly settlement and collection of such large revenues ought to be well paid; and they resolve, therefore, to have two special rates of pay for these two sets of Tálúqs, at 250 and 225 Rupees a month. The remaining Tálúqs will be divided into three classes equal in number, at 200, 175, and 150 Rupees, monthly. The Establishment will then be as follows, assuming the whole number of Tálúqs as finally settled to be 159.

*Proceedings of the Madras Government, Revenue Department,
for the month of April 1860.*

12. The increased monthly cost of the new scheme is thus less by Rupees 360 than saving on the Deputy Collectors shown in paragraph 8 of these Proceedings; and this without counting the saving of the Establishments of two or perhaps three Tálúqs, amounting about Rupees 1,000 or 1,500 more.

13. This Resolution will be communicated to the Board of Revenue and to Mr. Pelly respectively, with reference to the Order of this date No. 555. The Board will report at an early date any modification in the distribution of the Deputy Collectors proposed in paragraph 6; and Mr. Pelly will submit for approval a classification of the Tálúqs to suit several rates of pay in paragraph 11. The first two rates of pay will be applied as they are provided; the remaining three rates will be applied with reference to the Revenue of the Tálúqs but so that every District shall contain some at each rate.

(Signed) J. D. BOURDILLON,

Secretary to Government.

Memo-

Since the beginning of 1855, when the number of Deputy Collectors required for this Presidency was fixed by Govt at sixty, some changes have occurred to make it practicable and even desirable, to reduce the number 2. The circumstances I refer to are the following.

1. The large reduction resolved on and about to be carried into effect, in the numbers of Taluqs. In 1855 it was 243; when the arrangements now in progress are complete, it will be only 159 or possibly 158, being a reduction of more than one third.

2. The power proposed to be given to Tahsildars by the new Revenue Code, to decide certain civil disputes, which, formerly, they could not decide, though though it was the practice to require them to take the evidence and report it for the collectors decision.

3<sup>d</sup>. The power to detain and sell personal property for arrears without a reference to the Collector proposed to be given in the same Code.

4th. The larger criminal powers to be given to Tahsildars as magisterial officers, by the new Code of procedure.

5th. The transfer of the management of the police from the Tahsildars to a separate Department.

6th. The entire disappearance of the numerous investigations connected with Jinnas, which will be the result of the settlement now proceeding under the

the Jinnas Commission.

3. All these changes will diminish the <sup>necessity</sup> for Deputy Collectors over the Tahsildars, the first by so much lessening the number of Tahsildars, and all the remainder by diminishing the occasions for reference by Tahsildars to superior authority.

4. This diminution in the number of Deputy Collectors will set free funds which may be very advantageously employed to raise the pay of the Tahsildars; a class of servants of the first importance to a good administration; and, if ability and honesty can only be obtained in the Tahsildars, they will be to a great extent secured in two subdivisions with the petty rates of tainly too low for financial reasons.

5. I propose in this memo to show in detail how this change may be made; viz. what funds may be made available from the pay of the Deputy Collectors, and how these may be applied to augment the pay of Tahsildars.

necessary.

7. In explanation of the list I may say that Marriul and Trichinopoly are included among the eight, though not large Dists, because they have no
Sub Collectors.

* Nellore

The following are the reasons for giving Deputy Collectors to the five Districts.

Nellore - For the Venkatagiri Zamindary North Arcot - For Calastri and Cartnaggar Madura - For Ramnad and Sivaganga Salem - For the Shivaroy Hills Malabar - For Wainad. It is proposed to have two such officers in Wainad, but the second may be obtained by making the present munisif a Deputy Magistrate and stationing him at Nallalam to act in both capacities.

8. Supposing this number of 48 to be sufficient in the whole, with, possibly, some variations in the distribution, and supposing these 48 to be classified as to pay in the same proportions
as the sixty now sanctioned, the saving will amount including

| Total                          |             |                   | 23750     |                 | 19000     | 4750   |
| Establishments                 |             |                   | 3000      |                 | 2400      | 600    |
| Total including Establishments |             |                   | 26750     |                 | 21400     | 5350   |

In fact the saving in Establishments will probably be more than is here set down, because so large a proportion of the Deputy Collectors are to be at the District Treasuries, where they need very little additional Establishment.

9. The following is the provision made in Mr. Pelly's scheme for Tahsildars.

36 at 200 = 7200
 54 at 160 = 8640
 71 at 120 = 8520
 Total 161 = 24360

Not only the third rate of

of pay is too low for an officer in the important position of Tahsildar, but the number at the highest rate is too small compared with those at the lower rates.

10. I find from a list of the new Taluqs procured from Mr. Pelly, that there will be seven Taluqs yielding above five lacs of rupees yearly, of which five are in Tanjore, one in Tinnevely, and one in Malabar. There are also about 20 others yielding above three lacs.

11. Officers entrusted with the settlement and collection of such large revenues ought to be well paid. I propose therefore to have two special rates of pay for these two sets of Taluqs, at 250 and 225 Rupees a month; and to divide the remaining Taluqs into three classes equal equal in number at 200, 175 and 150 Rupees monthly. The Establishment will then be as follows: but I must first mention that whereas Mr. Pelly's scheme of Establishment provided for 161 Tahsildars as shown above, the actual number will be only 159, or possibly 158.

Proposed Scheme

7 at 250 = 1750

20 at 225 = 4500

44 at 200 = 8800

44 at 175 = 7700

44 at 150 = 6600

Total 159 29350

Subtract cost of the present scheme 24860

Increase 4990

12. The increased monthly cost of the new scheme is thus less by Rupees 360 than the saving in the Deputy Collectors as shown above in para 8: this without counting the saving of the establishments of any two or perhaps three Taluqs, amounting to about Rs. 1000 or 1500 more.

13. Considering how important the Post of Tahsildar is, I do not think the proposed rates of pay will be thought too high. If it is objected that the highest rate is equal to the lowest rate of the superior grade of Deputy Collectors, I answer that the number at that highest rate is very small, & that it will be easy so to arrange that those few shall not be put under the orders of a fourth class Dy. Collr. Indeed it might be urged that the duties entrusted to a Tahsildar of the first class are not inferior to those ordinarily discharged by a Deputy Collector.

14. I append a statement of the rates of pay of the Tahsildars of the Districts of the North West Provinces, extracted from a collection of Tables printed by the Civil Civil Auditors at Allahabad in 1853. It will be seen that the pay ranges from 250 Rs to 100 Rs with two at still lower rates probably in very small Taluqs. Yet the Taluqs are smaller in extent & revenue than ours; & there seems reason to believe that the <sup>lower</sup> rates at least would have been higher, if funds had been available.

There are also a number of Panchs on liberal salaries; but what their exact duties are I do not know. These also are shown below.

This statement entirely accords with my views. We shall now be able to have a really responsible, respectable class of Officers in the important position of Tahsildars. The improvement in their position will also enable us to entrust them with increased magisterial powers. This is required as a corollary to the New Police and it will be a great boon to the People, who suffer in many ways from the want of an efficient local Magistrate.

I consider the arrangement here proposed a useful improvement.

The I. M. S. S. S. S. S.

P. Q.

Proceedings of the Madras Government
Under date the 11th April 1860.

Q. In 1855 the government considered the subject of creating the grade of Dy. Colls, and they then fixed on sixty as the proper number to meet the requirements of the service. Since that period however some changes have occurred which render it practicable, and even desirable, to reduce the number.

2. The circumstances to which the Government refer are the following

1st. The large reduction about to be carried into effect in the numbers of Taluqs. In 1855 the number was 248; but when the arrangements in progress are completed, it will be only 159 or possibly 158, being a reduction of more than one third.

2nd The power proposed to be given to Tahsildars

Tahsildars by the new Revenue Code, to decide certain civil disputes, which, formerly, they could not do, though it was the practice to require them to take the evidence and report it for the Collector's decision.

3rd The power to distrain and sell personal property for arrears without a reference to the Collector, which will be vested in Tahsildars when the new Code becomes Law.

4th The larger criminal powers which will be given to Tahsildars as Magisterial officers, by the new code of procedure.

5th The transfer of the management of the police from the Tahsildars to a separate Department.

6th The entire disappearance of the numerous investigations connected with Suams, which will be the result of the settlement now proceeding under the Suam Commission.

7. All these changes will diminish the necessity for Deputy Collectors over the Tahsildars; the first by so much lessening the number of Tahsildars, and all the the remainder by diminishing the occasions for reference by Tahsildars to superior authority.

4. The diminution in the number of Deputy Collectors will set free funds which the Government think may be very advantageously employed to raise the pay of the Tahsildars, which in the opinion of the Govt. is put too low in Mr. Pelly's scheme. This class of servants are of the first importance to a good administration, since, if ability and honesty can only be obtained in the Tahsildar, they will be to a great extent secured in his subordinates. ~~The rates of pay for Tahsildars in Mr. Pelly's scheme, the Government consider too low.~~

5. The following detail will show what funds funds may be made available from the pay of the Deputy Collector, and these may be applied to augment the pay of Sub-collectors.

b. Considering all circumstances, it appears to Government that forty-eight Deputy Collectors will be sufficient for all purposes. viz.

| For 13 Salt Districts                                                                                  | 13 |

 classifying them

| Total including establishments |                       |                      | 26750       |                    | 21400       | 5350          |

The saving in establishments will in all probability be more than the sum above set down, because a large proportion of the Dy.
 Collectors are to be stationed at the District Treasuries where they will need very little additional establishment.

 9. The salaries proposed to be assigned to Tahsildars in Mr. Pelly's scheme are as follows.

|                               |        |
|-------------------------------|--------|
| 36 Tahsildars @ 200 Rs. each. | 7200   |
| 54 @ 160                      | 8640   |
| 71 @ 120                      | 8520   |
| Total 161                     | 24,360 |

Not only the third rate of pay in this scheme is too low for an officer in the important position of Tahsildar, but that ~~even~~ the number at the highest rate is too small compared with the number at the lower rates.

10. From a list of new <sup>stamped</sup> from Mr. Pelly, Taluqs, it appears that there will be seven Taluqs yielding a revenue of above 5 lakhs of Rupees yearly,
 of which five are in Tanjore
 one in Tirunelveli, and one in Malabar. There are also about 20 others yielding above three lakhs.

11 The Govt are of opinion that officers entrusted with the <sup>yearly</sup> settlement and collection of such large revenues
ought to be well paid;
and they resolve therefore to have two special rates of pay for these two sets of Taluqs, at 250 and 225 Rupees a month, ~~and to divide~~

The remaining Taluqs <sup>will be divided</sup> into three classes equal in number, @ 200, 175 & 150 Rs monthly. The establishment will
then be as follows,
assuming the whole number of Taluqs as finally settled to be 159.

| Proposed Scheme.                   |    |        |
|------------------------------------|----|--------|
| 7 Tahsilours @ 250 Rs each         | Rs | 1,750- |
| 20 @ 225                           | "  | 4,500  |
| 44 @ 200                           | "  | 8,800  |
| 44 @ 175                           | "  | 7,700  |
| 44 @ 150                           | "  | 6,600  |
| Total 159                          |    | 29,350 |
| Product cost of the present scheme |    | 24,360 |
| Increase Rs 4,990.                 |    |        |

12. The increase & monthly cost of the new scheme is thus less by Rs 360 than the saving on the Deputy Collectors shown in para 8. of these proceedings; and this is without counting the saving of the establishments of 2 or perhaps 3 Taluqs, amounting to about Rs 1,000 or 1,500
more.

13. This resolution will be communicated to the Board of Revenue and to Mr. Pelly, respectively.
- by

by, with reference to the order of
No. The Board will report at an early date any modification
in the distribution of the Deputy Collectors proposed in para 6, and Mr. Pelly will submit for approval a classification of the Salugs
to suit the several rates
of pay in Para 11.
The first two rates of pay will be applied
as there provided; the remaining three rates will be applied with reference to the Rev.
of the Salugs, but
so that every District shall contain some at each rate.
