6	Turlah.....	3,000	...	...	May be given for 10 years when an increase of Rs. 1,000 may be paid easily.
7	Pauloor.....	2,000	...	...	These Zemindars will claim a remission on account of Salt Revenue. Pauloor..... Rs. 719 A. 12 P. 3; Hoomah..... 660 0 0 and; Birredi..... 2 7 0; Total Rs. 1,382 3 3
8	Hoomah.....	2,000	...	...
9	Birridi.....	5,300	...	...	The Zemindars are overwhelmed with debt, and as the Sayer and Abkarry may be taken from them without remission I would recommend the Revenue of the two first should for 6 years be, Pauloor.....1,280 3 8. and Hoomah.....1,340 0 0 When the full Jummabundi of Rs. 2,000 from each may be put on them.
10	Soorunghi.....	4,000	...	...	This Zemindary is difficult of access, but can afford this jummah.
11	Chighutty	35,000	...	...	10 years at this sum and Rs 40,000 in perpetuity.
12	Jerradah	2,000	...	...	This Zemindary cannot well pay more with regularity.
13	Bodagadah.....	4,000	...	...	There will be considerable difficulty in realizing this amount.
14	Seerghur.....	6,000	...	...	I hope in recommending this sum that the money will be paid with regularity.
15	Sooradah.....	3,000	...	...	This Zemindar's retired situation on the borders of the Rajah of Berar, renders his evasion of payment so easy, that I am averse to fixing on any sum.
16	Boodarsinghi....	700	...	...	If this Zemindar does not pay more regularly I would recommend the Zemindary being put under Porlah Kimedy whose regularity in payment is almost proverbial.
17	Mundasaw.	15,000	...	...	This Zemindar can well afford this sum.
18	Callicoote. (assigument)..	29,665	...	...	The two Zemindaries have been long under aumanie and rented, the former 29 years, the latter 12 years, there still remains a balance due by each vide Account Current accompanying it, after taking under management the Sayer and Abkarry, the Zemindary should be assessed at Rs. 30,000 for Callicoote and Rs. 7,500 for Jellantrah as this is for the Zemindaries, exclusive of the Zemindars' Jagheers I think the Rajah might well be able to pay the amount. Your Board will observe by the Account Current that the Collections from Callicoote whether under management or rented have not on an average exceeded Rs. 33,609 As. 8 Ps. 5 for 17 years including the Sayer revenue which so long as the same was rented was included in the rent and no separate account of it kept, but for the last 3 years, the Zemindary was under management & the average of the Sayer revenue of the 3 years gives only Rs. 1,198 As. 1 Ps. 9. The balance remaining against this Zemindary is still very heavy. Jellantrah for the period it has been rented and under management has yielded on an average a larger revenue to Government than the usual tribute received from the Zemindar of Rs. 5,000, being Rs. 8,823 As. 13 Ps. 6 independant of the small difference I have left the Zemindar supposing the Jumma Rs. 7,500, he has a small Jagheer which has never been assessed but which was separated off for his maintenance.

These Reports are Printed merely for convenience of reference and do not acquire any authority merely from being printed.

To THE

HONORABLE SIR ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, K. B.

PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS

OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE.

FORT SAINT GEORGE.

GENTLEMEN,

We have the honor to lay before you our Report upon the countries dependant on Ganjam, accompanied by the following papers:—

No 1. General Abstract of Collections in the Havaly, including the Sea and River Customs of Barva, Sonapore, Munsurcotah, and Ganjam.
No 2. General Abstract of Agraharam and Jaghire villages in the Havaly.
No 3. General Abstract of Enams in the Havaly.
No 4. General Abstract of Collections in the Zemindaries.

2. The Itchapore District constituting the Northern Division of the Chicacole Circar, is bounded to the southwest by the countries dependant on Vizagapatam; to the southeast, by the Bay of Bengal; and from northeast to southwest, by the dominions of the tributaries of the Rajah of Berar.

3. This Division contains the Havaly lands, and the Zemindaries of Turlah, Mundasah, Bodarsingy, Jalantrah, Jaradah, Sooringy, Chiguty, Mohery, Vizianagur, Pratapgerry, Sergada, Bodagada, Soordah, Daracote, Goomsur, Hautgur, Hoomah, Paloor, Beredy, and Callecote.

Zemindaries named.

4. The Government lands, which we shall first describe, include the purganahs of Barwa, Itchapore, Mantredy, Mansurcotah, Ganjam, Pobbacondah, Aska, Bavanapore, and four mootahs, viz. Coorlah, Injelle, Balgo, Nirala, and Bamanachoy, which latter are formed of certain villages that had been dismembered from the Havaly, and are now re-annexed to it.

Havaly lands.

5. The five former of these purganahs occupy nearly the whole line of sea coast, and comprize within their extent all the sea Ports in the District; the other purganahs together with the mootahs lie inland, and are situated along or near the banks of the river which runs by Aska, and empties itself into the sea at Ganjam.

6. If we except the purganah of Mansurcottah, the country is fertile and well cultivated, producing, in great abundance, paddy, the various sorts of dry grains, cotton, and oil seeds; tobacco and sugarcane are also to be met within most of the purganahs, in small quantities; but the former is more generally cultivated in Itchapore, and the latter in Aska, Poobacundah and Ganjam. Mansurcotah and Itchapore likewise furnish salt, not only for their own consumption but for the supply of other Havaly purganahs and several Zemindaries, for which they have an exclusive privilege.

7. We do not find the proportion of produce allowed to the cultivators to be any where less than six, or more than ten parts in twenty of paddy; in general, they receive from seven to eight nowties in the burnum of twenty nowties. Dry grains, oil seeds, and cotton, are usually, though not in every purganah, divided into equal shares; but in the culture of tobacco and sugarcane, it is customary for the cultivator to pay a fixed rent for the ground, instead of the produce in kind.

Inhabitants' share.

8. The gross amount of the revenue on an average of eight years from 1778 to 1785, is Rs. 2,81,067, As. 7, P. 5, including the Sea and River Customs of Barva, Sonapore, Mansurcotah, and Ganjam, which are under the immediate management of the Chief and Council, and produce, according to the accounts transmitted by them to us, on a medium of the last three years, Rs. 13,518, As. 14, P. 1. The deduction for payment of enamdars amount to Rs. 19,107, As. 5, P. 10, for Village Arrack, Salt, Sea, and Land custom expences, to Rupees 15,821, As. 3, P 9, which added together make Rs. 34,928, As. 9, P. 7, and reduce the net revenue to Rs. 2,46,138, As. 13, P. 10.

Revenue.

9. During the time of the Mogul Government, the Muzomdar of Chicacole appointed his gomastahs to the several purganahs of the Havaly for the purpose of keeping the accounts of the general receipts of revenue; but his authority expiring upon the cession of the Circar to the Company, that duty is at present performed by persons who retain the name only of his gomastahs, and an officer called the Koolkurny. These Officers, however, particularly in the purganahs of Poobbocondah, and Itchapoor, are more numerous than the discharge of this duty requires, and, being burthensome to the people on acount of the fees they exact, should be reduced.

Officers of Revenue.

10. In addition to the abovementioned officers of revenue, there ought to be a Kurnum to each village, if a large one, or to every two or three small ones; but so far from this being the case, we remark and at the same time recommend, that the defect should be supplied at the discretion of the Manager of the Havaly—that many villages, and the whole of the purganahs of Montredy and Munsurkota, are destitute of this necessary officer, in consequence of which, we were obliged to have recourse to the Muzomdars, Koolkurnies, Subrenters, and Peshcars to complete our accounts.

11. The other servants are a Naikwarree with a certain number of Peons in proportion to the extent of the purgunnah, and a Cutwal with a few Peons at each Cusbah, all of whom are paid a monthly allowance in money or are supported by enams and roossooms from the village, salt, and juncan.

Jaghire and Agraharam villages.

12. The number of Jaghire, and Agraharam villages in the Havaly, reckoning the Cauzee's enams as one, is thirty three; their value computed upon an average of eight years is Rs. 12,329, As. 5, from which they pay to Government Rs. 2,946, As. 4, P. 8; but it is necessary to notice that several of these villages having been sometimes re-annexed to the Government lands, and the Jaghiredar paid in ready money, and, at other times restored to him, just as it suited the pleasure of the renter, their present amount may not exactly correspond with our Abstract which is taken for eight years, within which time these changes often happened.

13. Ten of these villages are enjoyed by Mahomedans, eleven by Bramins, nine are appropriated to the use of Jaggarnaut Pagodah, two to the Pagodahs of Itchapur and Montreddy, one is granted to four head naikwarries and a hundred peons at Poobacundah.

14. In regard to these alienations we have only to observe, that they have not increased since the establishment of the Company's Government, nor, so far as we can find, are misapplied from the purposes they were originally given for, which, we conceive, are not wholly inadmissible upon principles of policy and utility.

15. There are besides these villages, two kinds of enamdars, named Tribhagy, and Dorobust; the former are paid an annual allowance in money supposed to be calculated at one third of the produce of their enam ground; the latter receive the produce in kind; it is therefore customary to include their enams in the renter's moochilkas, and after the grain is beaten out and the quantity belonging to each enamdar ascertained by measurement, an order is given for delivery of the grain, the amount of which, calculated at the settled price for the season, is deducted from the sum to be paid by the renter. We have spared no pains to procure an exact account of both kinds of enams for the last eight years, from which it appears that in 1778 they amounted to Rs. 10,478 As. 15 and in the year 1785, to Rs. 20,732, As. 7 P. 5,

16. This augmentation arises from the improvement of the enam ground, from new enams having been granted, and the old ones enlarged. To prevent, however, any further increase of this demand upon the revenue, as well as to lessen such part of it as may have arisen irregularly, it appears advisable that such of these grants as upon examination cannot be clearly proved to have existed at the time the Company acquired possession of the Circar, should be rejected as invalid.

17. But the augmentation of these enams is not the only circumstance that points them out as an object of necessary reform; upon their present footing they are a source of great trouble and perplexity to the Collector, and the dorobust enams in particular, of eventual loss to the revenue, from the opening they afford for collusion between the enamdar and renter in the measurement of the produce; we therefore recommend that after the Dorobust enamdar's claim shall have been ascertained and confirmed by an examination of his grant, the entire disposal of his ground should be left to him; and that to the Tribhagy enamdar (his title being in like manner proved) a new sunud should be given, specifying the sum to be received by him annually, which done, they should be registered to serve as a record, and prevent any addition taking place hereafter.

18. As the number of these two descriptions of claimants amounted to many hundreds, it would have been impracticable for us to have undertaken the discussion of their several claims without neglecting the more important objects of our inquiry; but we have the less reason to regret our inability to execute this part of our instructions, as the Manager of the Havaly who, from his station and constant residence in the District, will be able to obtain more complete information regarding these enams than we could well expect, is directed to give his attention to this subject.

19. Having made such observations relative to the Havaly as we judged worthy of your attention, we shall proceed to our account of the Zemindaries.

Turlah.

20. The Zemindary of Turlah is bounded by the Vizagapatam District to the south and west, Mundasah to the north, and the sea to the east; it is well cultivated, and being level and abundantly supplied with water, produces mostly paddy, and a small quantity of dry grains, oil seeds, cotton, and tobacco, of all which the cultivator is allowed half. There is nothing that deserves the name of a fort in this Zemindary, the place where the Rajah resides having only a mud wall raised round it; he maintains two hundred and six pike and matchlock men, who have villages given them for their subsistence. The manufactures are salempores and cloths for the use of the natives.

Mundasa.

21. North east of Turlah is the Zemindary of Mundasa, a great part of which is hilly and overrun with jungle; yet where cultivated it produces the best paddy in the District besides the several articles mentioned in Turlah. The share of the cultivator varies according to the quality of the soil and advantage of water, being in different parts of this Zemindary one third, two, and sometimes three fifths. There is a small mud fort in this country, where the Rajah resides, who has in his service three hundred and ninety four pike and matchlock people, to whom he gives Mokasas for their maintenance. Besides salempores and country cloths, there are a few muslins manufactured in this Zemindary.

Bodarsingy.

22. Bodarsingy is a very small Zemindary adjoining to Mundasah on the north, the produce of which is chiefly paddy, the cultivator being allowed two fifths for his share. This country has neither fort, nor manufactures, nor do the peons in the Rajah's service exceed thirty.

Jalantrah.

23. The Zemindary of Jalantrah which is situated north east from Bodarsingy, is inferior to few in the District in the advantages it derives from nature; but to so great a degree is the cultivation neglected, and the inhabitants oppressed, both by the Zemindar and the person who is security, that it does not yield at present half of what it is capable of producing.

24. The country, of which a very considerable part lies waste, produces, in nearly equal proportions, paddy and dry grains, besides cotton, oil seeds, beetle, and tobacco. The cultivator's share of the first article is two fifths, and of the rest one half. The Zemind r retains in his service one hundred and seven pike and matchlock men, to some of whom he assigns villages, to others a monthly stipend in money. The manufactures consist of salampores, cloths for the natives, muslins, and izarees.

Jaradah.

25. Jaradah is an inconsiderable Zemindary to the north of Jalantrah, but well watered by a small river which afterwards falls into that of Itchapur, and therefore produces little else but paddy of which the cultivator receives half. Here are no manufactures, the people being supplied from the neighbouring countries. The pike and matchlock peons amount to one hundred and eighteen, who are paid partly in money and partly by ground.

Sooringy.

26. Contiguous to Jaradah is the Zemindary of Sooringy, which has also the benefit of a small river in contributing to its fertility: the produce of this country consists of paddy, dry grains, oil seeds, cotton, and sugarcane; the cultivator being allowed two fifths of the first, and half of the other articles. There were formerly two forts in this Zemindary, but they have been neglected and suffered to go to decay. The Rajah has in his service one hundred and ninety seven pike and matchlock men. The manufactures are merely for the use of the natives.

Chigutty.

27. The Zemindary of Chigutty is of greater extent than any of the preceding; it is watered by the Itchapur river, and of late years has been well cultivated, yielding paddy, dry grains, oil seeds, sugarcane, tobacco, cotton, turmeric, and Jagery. The ryot's proportion of paddy is generally half, (except in a few villages where he receives only two fifths,) and the same of the other articles of the produce. There is no fort in this Zemindary, but the Rajah retains in his service forty one horsemen, and three hundred and eighty pike and matchlock men, most of whom are paid in money. The manufactures of this country are country cloths, salempores, muslins, and izarees.

Mohery.

28. The Zemindary of Mohery is situated north east of Chigutty, and ranks among the most valuable in the District; we nowhere observe a greater regard paid to cultivation than in this Zemindary, though the crops are in some measure precarious, as they depend entirely upon the rains that fall within its own extent The produce is the same as in Chigutty, and the cultivator receives from 6 to 10 parts in twenty of paddy, and half of the other articles. Of six forts that were erected in different parts of this Zemindary, there is not one remaining; and the military are reduced to four hundred from two thousand which was the number kept up heretofore. Besides salempores and cloths for the natives, which are made in all parts of the Zemindary, the town of Berha pur manufactures silk and cotton cloths to the amount of a lac of Rupees annually, mostly for exportation. Our accounts of this Zemindary were taken for a period of five years that the whole country was under the Rajah, and for three years that the greater part of it was assigned over to the Company and rented by Carsujee, under whom it so much improved, that should an average be formed on the last three years, the gross amount of the revenue would be Rs. 1,30,000 instead of Rs. 1,10,802, As. 9.

Vizianagur.

29. Vizianagur is situated to the north of Sooringy, and almost due west from Mohery, from which it is separated by a range of hills. It is of considerable extent, and watered by two small rivers, but not very fertile, being full of hills. The produce consists of paddy, dry grains, oil seeds, cotton, tobacco, sugarcane, dammer, iron, wax, honey, ing partly to the warmth and confidence of the officer misled by an interested dubash and partly to apprehension and haughtiness of spirit in the rajah and his followers, the European and his attendants, were all laid dead in the cutcherry, and after skirmishing a few days to cover the retreat of his family and treasure, Guzzeputty fled into the Hills from whence he continued for a long time to molest the country.

Jagganaut Dhao was then appointed to Kemedy under tuition of Arzee Beg, who, as the youth was idle and dissipated, managed without controul, and applied, if report says true, the revenues to his own purposes. The country remained under this arrangement until the mutiny of sepoys at Vizagapatam in 1780, where Guzzeputty having obtained forgiveness had some time resided. The ringleader of the mutineers having the gentlemen in his power, and afterwards liberating them without injury, Guzzeputty laid claim to the merit of saving their lives, though many strongly suspect that he was himself no inconsiderable mover of that unfortunate affair. In reward however of this dubious service, Kemedy was restored to him, and his brother being recalled had a pension of 600 Rupees monthly. After about 20 months, during which Arzee Beg had been continued in office, the Kists falling in arrear, and the minister (displeased probably at the independent temper and interference of his master) representing that it was not occasioned by his neglect, the rajah was recalled and directed, as the least disagreeable alternative, to empower his brother to manage for two years, Arzee Beg and two other blackmen becoming securities. The inability of Juggarnut Dhao being very soon evident, these securities were permitted to make the collections divided for that purpose, and from that time they acted under the character of renters. The term of his suspension being at an end, Guzzeputty Dhao, has lately returned and taken charge again without being embarassed as before with the interference of Arzee Beg who died during his rentership, so that although the character of the Rajah does not warrant sanguine expectations of regularity, yet as separate interests and a division of authority exists no longer, it is probable the country will experience an easier manangement and the Company's payments be more correctly attended to. For though Guzzeputty is arrogant and a man of violent passions, he appears by no means destitute of abilities. His children are two sons and two daughters, and his principal wife is of the family of Bahubalundah.

Guzzeputty expresses a great desire to resume Goneporam and Heremundalum, which he asserts were taken from him by compulsion and artifice, and were not of his own free gift, for that being, at that time a youth, Arzee Beg, Naraharree, and Kurmanad, three head men of his cutcherry, upon his obstinate refusal to sign the deeds of transfer, forged his signature and forwarded them to Sitteram Rauze, who immediately took possession, in which he tacitly submitted, fearing the extraordinary power and influence of the Zemindar, and that Vizeram Rauze and Jaggernaut Rauze coming to Kemedy upon business surrounded his house with 500 men, alarmed at which, he fled into the Hills, and that after his departure they compelled his servants to make out a sunned giving Heremundalum, to Vizeram Rauze. Upon this representation of Guzzeputty's I beg to remark that Goneporum was originally a part of Nandaporam, but forcibily taken by Narrain Dhao, and that Sitteram's restitution of it to Vicheram Dhao can be considered in no other light than restoring it to the lawful owner. But with regard to Heremundalum if the above assertions are true, and it is thought proper to be restored to him he should pay for it at least the sum of 7,000 Rupees, and even then he will be no loser, as I am convinced the village cadjans sent me are untrue, or the country under its present managements does not flourish as formerly, the ancient value being 12,000 Rupees and my average only 8,600. Though I must think as this purganah is the very key to Kemedy and far divided from all the Vizeanagarum lands, that it might with propriety be annexed to the Havally.

The country of Kemedy is surrounded by mountains, the vallies extensive and very fertile, having every advantage of tanks, river and abundant dews, but the climate is so extremely unhealthy that it proves fatal to most strangers who reside there during or after the rainy season. It is bounded on the east by Turlah and Teckally, on the north by the lofty Hills of the Sowrah people, on the west by those of Polcondah and Courpaum, and on the south by Chicacole Havally. The greatest length from east to west is about 25 coss, and from north to south 18 coss including the ranges of Hills that intersect it in some parts and are its boundaries in others.

It is generally believed there are mines of gold in the country north east from Kemedy called Mahindramallee, as some of the finest sort of that metal is brought from thence, and is probably picked up in the torrents that come from the mountains, but on this subject they are extremely secret, pretending to have a method of purifying the gold that comes to them from the low countries. To deter any from going in search of these mines, they relate dreadful tales of the dangers surrounding a mountain far inland which contains a water that transmutes all metals into gold.

The Fort at the Capital was formerly of some strength, but is now in ruins. The Hill Forts which are to restrain the wild Sowrah, are nothing more than slight walls of earth in the centre of vallies, and fenced round with hills and impassible jungles. These are garrisoned by the Godeal caste, a race of the Hill people who are reduced and civilized, and pay a yearly nazer to the Rajah.

The will of the Rajah is the Law, nor did I hear of any Court of Justice.

In the form of my English accounts of Kemedy, I have adopted a different mode from that of the Zemindary, because the produce was forthcoming in every place, and the account, though concise, is equally complete with the former. I have not been able to obtain Village accounts for the same years as of the Zemindary, nor a regular and complete succession of those I have taken, either because they were concealed and lost in the late changes, or carried away or burned when the Hill people, or the fires frequent during the dry season, destroy every thing before them.

The principal produce is paddy, and it has dry grains and sugarcane ,wax, honey, timber. The manufacture is muslin, with variegated silk borders, in great demand amongst the Hindoos. The collections in the poor and hilly country is made by Bilmocktah or appraisement founded on the produce of the preceding year, which practice enables them to take one kist in advance from the cultivators. Afterwards when the crop is ripe, it is valued, and if the produce is increased, a proportionate nazer is taken, if lessened, no deduction is made in the first appraisement. In paddy lands, the crops are valued, the labouring share depending on the quality of the soil,—those watered by labour, retaining one half, and the flooded grounds under tanks only one third of the harvest. Government's share is taken chiefly, but not entirely, in kind, the Bilmoetkah collections only being established in money. There are Kirnams only at the cusbah villages, the head Naidoo being responsible for the other villages. The repair of tanks is at the Rajah's expence, without any additional collection. The late Renters increased the receipts by striking off such tarast peons as were of no use, and joining their ground to the Government villages, but they are said to have discouraged the merchants from passing that way, thereby to keep up their own price on commodities, and that many villages lost people in consequence of their severity. By conversing with inhabitants, former Tasildar, and cutcherry servants of Kemedy, I understand, its revenue in favourable times was formerly nearly 3 lacks of Rupees, and never less than one lack and half. But the average of the accounts sent me, calculated upon years when rice was at a great price, amounts to only 1,87,051 Rupees, which makes me doubt their authenticity, though the deficiency may be partly accounted for by the many changes and variety of intrests that have occurred in the management, disturbing the quiet and confidence of the people who have been without a fixed head or any encouragement to labour.

The Rajah's accounts of his disbursements is to be considered as a display of his family expences and not as of his present payments, for I imagine he does not spend more at this time than one half the amount there given.

The Sowrah people, whose hills are to be considered as part of the Circars, from what I can learn, appear to be the aborigines of the Calinga Division,, who preferring liberty and those rude mountains to a civilized dependance on foreign intruders, were driven from the plains some ages ago by the more polished and conquering Hindoos from the northern parts of Hindostan; the manners of this people being little known, it may perhaps be proper, as matter equally new and curious, to relate such of their customs as have reached my knowledge.

This people though at present far from being numerous, are divided into a number of communities, and known by different names in different parts of the Chicacole Circar; their manners also are more or less civilized in proportion to their intercourse with the Hindoos. Those immediately bordering in Kemedy are called Godeal, and are in subjection to that Rajah. The more distant and wild mountains are inhabited by the true Sowrah,—an athelitic, well shaped race of men, of lighter colour than the Worears, but some of them are afflicted with a hard swelling in the throat. They are also in particular places, of low stature, with large heads and bellies, but small limbs, probably the effect of some peculiarity in the climate. Near Kalahunda they are called Coodoo, and down the range of mountains almost so far south as Breedatchellum, many societies of the same race are to be met with. The life they lead is extremely wild and savage, dwelling in small societies amidst almost impenetrable woods and mountains, and subsisting upon plunder from the low lands; by hunting; and the fruits of the forests; though in some places, they cultivate small grain sufficient for their support. They use the bow and arrows, and battle axe, but of a rude construction, and are entirely ignorant of manufactures, many going entirely naked. They are said to have no distinctions of rank, the religious men only obtaining respect amongst them, nor do they seem to have ideas of regular government, though some of the oldest men are named by the community to decide when any crime or misunderstanding arises amongst them. It is usual for the younger to marry the widow of the elder brother, should she have no children and be younger than him, otherwise, it is not expected. They make annual sacrifice to the spirits of their deceased relations, invoking at the same time the presence of all their ancestors, and afterwards feast upon the offering. Human sacrifices also are in use amongst them, from a persuasion they render the deity propitious, secure them a plentiful subsistence, and, exemption from sickness and danger of wild beasts, supposing the neglect of this ceremony would occasion want, and dreadful misfortunes to befall them.

Their hills are supposed to have mines of many sorts of metals, but the savageness of the people, wildness of the country, and inclemency of the climate, are insurmountable obstacles to their being rendered of any advantage.
