The ratio of the entire strength—1,224 men—is one Policeman for every 1,115 of the population, and for every 4.2 square miles of area—and that of the cost 6.6 per cent. of the Revenue, and at the rate of 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ th Anna per head of the population per annum.

6. The Government sanction likewise the Force, 45 Constables at an annual cost of (Rupees 4,500) four thousand and five hundred Rupees, required as watchmen at the Salt factories and Treasuries. The expense will be charged to the Revenue Department, plus the prescribed additional ten per cent. The extra Force which may be necessary for the Pearl Fishery at Tuticorin, should, the Inspector General thinks, be paid for from the proceeds of the Oyster banks.
