Dated 28th April 1863, No. 736.

The Government have lately received several copies of the "Progress Report of Forest administration in British Burmah in 1861-62," and some of them were sent to the Acting Conservator of Forests in the usual course. They now resolve to request Captain Beddome to report on the relative cost and productiveness of the Madras and Burmah systems of Forest administration; the chief differences in the two systems, and the improvements which can be introduced into the former from the latter should be clearly explained.
