

Proceedings of the Madras Government, Revenue Department, 18th February 1861.

11. With regard to the issues to Collectors it deserves consideration, whether the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General is apprised of this; apparently the account is kept wholly between the Collectors and the Superintendent of Stamp, but the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General should have the means of verifying the numbers and amounts of Stamps for which each Collector is responsible.

12. And if the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General be informed of the Stamps supplied to Collectors it may be questioned whether there is any necessity for the submission by the Collectors to the Superintendent of an account of their receipts and issues. His concern with the Collectors might end with their acknowledgment of the Stamps despatched by him, the further accounting for those Stamps being a matter between the Collectors and the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General.
