Read the following Translation of an Arzi from the Tahsildar in charge of Chendragherry Talook, to the Collector of North Arcot, dated the 18th June 1866, No. 67 :—

1. I beg to acknowledge receipt of your Takeed, dated the 12th instant, No. 62, calling for a report on the cattle disease called "Nulli," which has lately broken out in this Talook.

2. The disease first shewed itself in the village of Pakala, half way between Chittoor and Terupatti, and spread thence to Moongilput and Kattupalli. The symptoms are as follow :—The ears droop, the belly swells, giddiness ensues, distate for food ; then dysentery sets in, the discharges are of a black color ; ulcer in the eyes, nostrils, and mouth in which maggots form. This continues for four, five, or six days, when death ensues. It is a well known disease, and is believed to be a contagious one.

3. The local remedy is, boiled green-gram and rice mixed with onions, root of cotton plant, and ghee.

4. This remedy is said to have been successful in ten out of twenty-eight cases in Pakala and adjacent villages.

5. No other remedy is known to the people here.

6. This disease is reported to have first shewn itself fifty years ago, and to break out generally between January and June, disappearing after rain has fallen.
