Separate Revenue, No. 19.
Stamps.

The Government having had under their consideration the provision of the Act XXVI of 1867, "to amend the law relating to Stamp duties," which gives a discretionary power to Criminal Courts to exempt from Stamp duty, when they think proper, petitions or applications containing complaints of offences other than those for which Police Officers may arrest without warrant, the exercise of which power must very frequently require an order for the refund of Stamp duty already paid, resolve to call upon all Magistrates, through the Judicial Department, to report whether, especially in the case of the Petty Magistracy, any difficulty is found to exist in the way of making such refunds without delay or inconvenience to the poorer class of complainants, whether from the want of a fund at the disposal of the Magisterial Officer from which to meet such charges or otherwise, and whether any increase to the Permanent Advance Funds for contingent charges, which are already at the disposal of some Officers, is needed in consequence of this provision of the law.
