No. 276. Read the following Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Financial Department, (Accounts,) dated Fort William, 31st January 1868, No. 176 A :—

RESOLUTION.—An annual volume containing an account of the Trade and Navigation of Bengal, the Madras and Bombay Presidencies, British Burmah, and Sind, is published by the Local Governments and Administrations of those territories in a form which was prescribed by the Honorable the Court of Directors in a Despatch No. 1, dated 18th January, 1854.

2. The Financial Resolution, No. 3,138, dated 25th October 1865, the same Local Governments and Administrations were requested to furnish to the Government of India, in the Financial Department, monthly returns of the sea-borne trade and of the navigation of the Presidencies or Provinces subordinate to them.

3. To provide the materials for this consolidated monthly return, forms of the returns to be rendered by the several Custom Houses in each Presidency, to its Chief Customs authority, were prescribed at the same time.

4. A revised classification of articles was also introduced to facilitate the condensation of some of the final abstracts of trade.

5. But the monthly returns prescribed by the Financial Resolution, dated 25th October 1865, did not supersede the local annual return of trade and navigation. Its publication was to be continued in accordance with the order of the Court of Directors, dated 18th January 1854.

6. Subsequently, however, the Local Governments and Administrations concerned were asked to report on the expediency of assimilating the local annual volume, in the form of its tables and the character of its contents, with the annual return of the trade and navigation of the United Kingdom, which is published by the Board of Trade in London.

7. The replies to this requisition having been considered, the Governor General of India in Council is pleased to pass the following orders.

8. The classification of articles in the local annual volume, differs from that prescribed in the Financial Resolution, dated 25th October 1865. The latter, being the better classification, should be observed in the annual volume, it being undesirable that two classifications of articles, necessitating two sets of abstracts of imports and exports, should be prepared in the Custom Houses.

9. The monthly returns which are submitted to the Government of India in the Financial Department, are compiled in that Department in abstract tables, which give the trade of India in detail for each country and each article, but which shew the share of each Presidency in that trade under mere general heads. The separate annual return of the trade and navigation of each Presidency must, therefore, be continued, but in a different form.

10. The present annual volume is defective in some respects, viz.:—

1st.—Statistics for five years, or for more than two years, of the trade with each country and in each article, are not given in any of the volumes. That for Bombay contains indeed two tables of statistics for five years, but they give merely the value of the total import and export trade respectively with each country, and that too for the port of Bombay only, not for the Bombay Presidency.

2nd.—The trade of the whole Presidency with each country and in each article, for more than one year, appears only in the volume and occurs only for Madras, which gives such statistics for two years, but in a form that detracts from the value of the information, the trade which is detailed being the foreign and inter-portal trade, lumped together (not each separately), and it being given in the fragmentary form of detailed accounts for each foreign country or other Presidency, so that the Presidency totals of the trade in articles for two years are not given at all, and the totals of the imports and exports for all countries, for that period, are not given in one view.

3rd.—The foreign and inter-portal trade of the whole Presidency for one year, is given in the Madras volume only, but in a form so diffuse, that twelve pages in one part of the volume, for imports, and twelve other pages in another part, for exports, must be read for the details of the trade in any one article; while the details of the trade with any one country are interspersed among 96 pages of import tables and 90 pages of export tables, they being recorded in every twelfth page of the series, and the intervening pages being devoted to a similar record for the other countries in succession.

4th.—The trade in each article, and with each country, for one year, is recorded in the volumes of all the Presidencies, on the same diffuse plan as the preceding, for each port; the information given with so much waste of space, being at the same time reproduced for the chief port, in a more concise form, in another part of the volumes for Bengal and Bombay.

11. A complete assimilation of the arrangement of the local annual volume with that of the London Board of Trade would remove these defects, but on the other hand, it would do away with much of the statistics now given of the trade of the chief ports, and the inter-portal trade. The English volume gives details of the foreign trade only, and that in totals for the whole empire. For the several ports it gives only a limited amount of detail; even for important ports like London and Liverpool, it merely gives an account of the quantity and value of the trade in each principal article for one year, without details of the trade of those ports with each foreign country, and without comparing the statistics of two or more years. The valid reasons for this course, with respect to London and Liverpool, do not apply in the same degree to Calcutta and Bombay.

12. In the tables which are appended to this Resolution, and which will now be introduced for the local annual volume, in supersession of the existing forms and accounts, all the information in the existing volumes, respecting the trade of the chief port, and the inter-portal trade, which is of value, will be retained, while the defects just noticed, and other deficiencies, will be corrected.

13. Exclusive of the Navigation Returns, the English volume is in three divisions as follow, viz. :—

I.—Abstract tables for five years,—

a.—Of the totals of the import and export trade with each country, without detail of articles.

b.—Of the imports, exports, customs duties, and prices of articles, without detail of the countries from which imported, or to which exported, and with a detail of articles under their general designation or class, not in the several kinds comprised in the general designation.

II.—Two tables of general imports and exports respectively, shewing for one year the trade in each article with each country, for principal articles, with their several sub-divisions or kinds, and for other articles, thus supplying for the year the information omitted in Part Ib.

III.—Abstract tables for five years, detailing the articles of imports from, and exports to, each foreign country,—thus supplying the information omitted in Part Ia.

* Part I.—Accounts, Nos. 1 to 36
II. „ „ 37 & 38
III. „ „ 39
IV.—Special series for subordinate ports, Nos. 40 to 72
V.—General shipping for the year, Nos. 73 to 81...
Appendix.

14. This arrangement* is observed in the new tables now prescribed for the Indian volumes, with the requisite modifications for shewing the trade of the chief port of a Presidency, and its subordinate ports, besides giving that of the whole Presidency, and for shewing separately the foreign and inter-portal trade.

15. The trade of the chief port will be found in the same series, generally in the same tables, and in juxtaposition on the same pages, with the trade of the whole Presidency, in the first three parts of the volume.

16. The trade of the subordinate ports collectively, will be given in Abstract Tables 4 and 5 of Part I, and in Part II. On the plan of those Parts the trade will be further detailed in a special series of accounts, Nos. 40 to 71, comprised in Part IV. This special series will give all the information relating to the trade of the subordinate ports, that can be of practical value. The accounts though numerous are concise, the statistics for five years being confined to the subordinate ports collectively, while the quantities and value of the trade in each article, and the total trade with each country, will be given for only one year, in detail of the districts in which the subordinate ports are situated.

17. The special series is continued in further accounts, No. 72, which shew under the head of each foreign country, with which the annual trade exceeds Rupees 2,00,000 of imports or exports, and each of the other Presidencies, the imports therefrom, and exports thereto, at the subordinate ports collectively.

18. The detailed particulars and the abstracts for one year, will contain, in a concise form, and with a clearer arrangement, the information now given in the annual volumes, while the statistics for five years will be new matter.

19. In the Madras volume, the trade with Travancore and French ports in the Madras Presidency, and, in the Bombay volume, the trade with the ports in the Bombay Presidency noted on the margin, are recorded on the same footing as the inter-portal trade with other Presidencies. Inasmuch, however, as those ports are situated within the limits of the Madras and Bombay Presidencies, respectively, the trade with them is essentially the same as that with the Home Ports of those Presidencies. It will accordingly be omitted in the preceding series of accounts of the inter-port trade. The slight specialty which distinguishes those ports, fiscally, from the Home ports of the Madras and Bombay Presidencies will be met by recording the trade with them in an appendix, containing accounts which, under the heads of those ports, will shew the imports therefrom and exports thereto at the chief port, and at the subordinate ports collectively of the Presidency, and the total value of the imports therefrom and exports thereto, at each subordinate port. In this shape, the information will be more concise and suggestive than in the present form of the Bombay volume, which does not shew in one view the large trade of some of the ports abovementioned, with the Bombay Presidency.

Native Ports in,—

20. If so desired by the Government of Bengal, the Appendix may be similarly used for shewing the trade of Calcutta with Chittagong, which trade has been hitherto inserted in the publications of the Board of Revenue, although Chittagong is strictly a Home Port under that Government. A like discretion may also be exercised by the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, with respect to the extra returns of the trade with British Burman or Home Ports, which are entered in the local volume.

21. The Appendix may also be used by the Government of Bombay for continuing the special record of the cotton trade, Foreign, Inter-port, and Home, which forms an extra account in the series in the present local volume.

22. Some rules are necessary for preventing unnecessary detail in the compilation of the accounts now prescribed.

23. In order to reduce the number of foreign countries for which statistics for a group. This will materially reduce the number of tables in the account No. 39, but without sacrificing needful detail for the countries included in a group, inasmuch as the statistics of the exports and imports will be given in a separate account for one year, for each of those countries.

24. In the abstract tables noted on the margin, the detail of articles will be

Nos. 37 and 38, of general imports and exports. The only exceptions to this rule will be for Cotton Manufactures and Metals. For these two classes of articles, two sub-divisions of each will be adopted, viz., under Cotton Manufactures, those counted by pieces, and those measured by yards; and under Metals, those wrought and those unwrought.

25. In the accounts noted on the margin, the principal countries from which an article is imported or to which it is exported will be shewn under the article, or under the prescribed sub-division of the article, while the rest of the foreign trade in that article will be included in the entry "other countries." To avoid unnecessary entries of countries, only those for which the import or export of the article exceeds Rupees 2,000 annually will be detailed, the rest being included in the entry "other countries" under the article or sub-head.

26. Similarly, in the accounts noted on the margin, principal articles of import or export will be shewn in the detail of the trade of each country with the Presidency and its chief port. To abbreviate the detail of articles, those in which the amount of imports or exports does not exceed Rupees 2,000 will be included in an entry of "all other articles."

27. To restrict the number of principal articles under which the countries, with which imports and exports occur,

No. 37. General Imports.—Shewing in the 1st part, under principal articles, the principal countries with which imports and exports have occurred, and the quantities and value thereof for each country, but omitting this detail of countries for "other articles," the imports and exports of these latter being given in a concluding part, in totals for all countries.

No. 38. General Exports.—An account similar to the preceding.

are to be detailed, only the articles mentioned in Appendix C will be regarded as principal articles, all others will be shewn in the concluding part of the accounts, under the head of "other articles." As the trade for the whole of India in any articles under the latter head increases, the Government of India in the Financial Department will, from time to time, direct their transfer to the list of principal articles.

28. These rules for abbreviating the record of trade, apply only to the details in the local annual volume, and it is not intended by them to abridge the details prescribed in the Financial Resolution, dated 25th October 1865, for the monthly returns by subordinate Customs Offices to the Chief Customs authority in a Presidency, and by the latter to the Government of India in the Financial Department.

29. The accounts for navigation now prescribed for the local annual volume, contain more heads of information, and in a clearer form, than the existing volumes. Beyond this, they do not call for special remark.

30. The revised forms of accounts of trade and navigation for the local annual volume, are detailed in Appendix A, to this Resolution; a collection of the Forms is also appended. They will be adopted uniformly for the three Presidencies, from the year 1868-69 inclusive. The statistics of years previous to 1867-68 may not, in many cases, admit of exhibition in the new form. In such cases, the columns for those years in the abstract tables will be left blank, or the past years concerned may be omitted, where no figures for them can be supplied.

31. The Governor General in Council apprehends that the Local Governments will be able to arrange the annual accounts for 1867-68 also, in the new form, seeing that the monthly totals of the abstracts from which the Chief Customs authority in each Presidency has prepared the consolidated monthly returns for that year, for the Financial Department of the Government of India, have only to be turned, (under each article,) into annual totals of the trade in it with each country, after which it will only remain to re-arrange these annual totals in two sets of abstracts, shewing respectively the trade in each article, and with each country.

32. The accounts are indeed numerous, but they will merely shew in various forms, annual totals, excerpted from one set of abstracts, of the trade in each article and with each country. The detail work, therefore, will not be in proportion to the number of accounts.

ORDERED, that this Resolution and its Appendices A., B., and C., and copies of the revised forms for the Local Annual Return of Trade and Navigation, be sent to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, and Bengal, and the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah, for information and guidance; also, that a copy be furnished to the Statistical Committee.

APPENDIX.

The trade of Madras Ports, not British, with Travancore and the French Ports in the Madras Presidency, and of Bombay Ports with Portuguese and certain other groups of Ports in the Bombay Presidency, have been omitted in the present series of Accounts, the trade being essentially of the same character as that between Ports of the same Presidency. The particulars thereof may, however, be unobjectionably inserted in an Appendix to the Accounts, on the following plan, viz. :—

1st.—An Account of the Imports from, and the Exports to, each of those Ports, or groups of Ports, similar to the Account No. 72, but with sub-divisions distinguishing the Quantities and Value of the trade with the Chief Port, from those with all the other Ports of the Presidency.

2nd.—Total Value of Imports from, and Exports to, each of those Ports, at the several subordinate Ports of the Presidency on the Plan of Account No. 58, the Foreign or Native Ports constituting the headings of the Accounts, and the subordinate Ports being detailed down the page. The particulars of Navigation may be given in the same way.
