CIVIL WORKS, No. 27.

The attention of Government having been drawn to the frequent complaints that reach them of the breaking up, or early dilapidation of the floors of public buildings, when those floors are simply made of chunam in the ordinary method, His Excellency the Governor in Council thinks it necessary to direct that, except when timber can advantageously be used, the floors of all public buildings shall be laid either with stone, or square bricks, or with asphalte, as in each case may be considered most suitable.
