No. 170. Read the following letter from G. VANSAGNEW, Esq., Collector of Nellore, dated 5th February, 1873 :—

ABSTRACT.—With reference to the Proceedings of the Board of Revenue, 29th January, ultimo, Miscellaneous No. 200, the Collector was under the full impression that all ordinary subjects were disposed of in the Office of the Board by the Secretaries alone; that therefore he did not believe that the Board themselves were parties to the order of which he complained. Expresses his regret that he should have been so greatly misinformed and should thereby have been led to write in the way he did.

No. 171. ORDER THEREON, 25th February 1873, No. 220.

Miscellaneous.

THE Government accept Mr. Vansagnew's statement that he was under a delusion, and had no intention of questioning the authority of the Board of Revenue; but under any circumstances there was great impropriety in the tone he adopted, and, as he has already been informed, the Government will expect him to treat the Board invariably with the respect and deference to which their position entitles them.
