The pension of the Bolloopully Poligar's family was subject to a deduction of Rupees 288 per annum, assigned in 1802 for the support of Lutchmapah Naidoo and Mullapah Naidoo, illegitimate sons of Zullee Basapah Naidoo, former Poligar and original grantee. The Board of Revenue

Proceedings dated 2 August 1893

From the correspondence it appears that the pension

G.O. 4 August 1895, N. 1809.

Proceedings of the Board of Revenue when a pension in the legitimate branch of the family was reported, the Government decided that the legitimate side of the deceased should receive the allowance (in preference to the childless widow of the deceased) for the support of herself and the other members of the family, further observing that three Poligar pensions, of an area of lands and privileges, are transmitted to the legitimate descendants of the original grantees during good behavior.

It seems to follow that, in the present case, some production should be made in the allowance drawn by the deceased Basapah Naidu who is descended from an illegitimate branch of the family.
The Board in their Proceedings

Proceedings recorded in G.O. 13th February 1863. It was recommended two thirds, being then under the impression that no lineal descendants were alive.

If this proportion was considered appropriate, the allowance which might be granted to the widow Litchman, for the support of herself and of her two daughters, would be $\frac{2}{3}$ of \$44 in G.O.

Orders recommended for the amount of the difference, of $48, should revert to Sara-anna, the present head of the family, on the principle observed in G.O. of 16 February 1852. No. 202.
