Rukhammal, wife of No. 2, aged 32 years. 4. Subba Sami Naick, 1st son of No. 1, aged 12 years. 5. Sattiarappa Sami Naick, 2nd son of No. 1, aged 10 years. 6. The deceased drew a pension of Rupees 60 per measem for the support of himself and his family up to January 1871. In February of that year the pension was equally divided by the Collector, under the Board's Standing Order No. 173, between Ikmaiil and Bungaru Sundarapandia Naick, his son by the 1st wife, owing to the former having seduced the latter's wife; and the division was confirmed by the Board in their Proceedings, dated 5th October 1871, No. 4,286. But the deceased, being dissatisfied with the division, left his share undrawn from February 1871, and was engaged till his death in appealing against it and in defending suits brought against himself by his son Bungaru Sundarapandia Naick for the division of the rest of the family property. 3. Bungaru Sundarapandia Naick drew his share, Rs. 30, up to January 1875. In February last the payment to him was stopped under the Board's Official Memorandum, No. 186, dated 6th February 1875. | | |

SUBMITTED for the orders of Government.

2. An allowance of Rupees 100-3-8 was originally granted for the support of the family of the deposed Zemindar of Nagdiaparam.

3. In 1845 a reduced grant of Rupees 60 a month was continued to the deceased incumbent as head of the family. He drew the allowance until January 1871, when, owing to his misconduct, Bungaru Sundarapandia, his son by his first wife, with certain other members of the family, were obliged to leave the house. The Collector then assigned half the pension to Sundarapandia for the support of himself and the members of the family living with him. Dissatisfied with this arrangement, Iruvappa Naick declined to receive the remaining half share, and drew no portion of the pension from February 1871 to his death in March 1874.

G.O., 2nd April 1846, No. 378.

4. Though the entire pension was dependent on the life of the late incumbent Iruvappa Naick, the Collector through mistake continued the half share to Bungaru Sundarapandia until February 1875.

5. Satturappa Immudi Irabappa Naick, as eldest son of the deceased, claims the entire pension, and undertakes to support the whole family. Bungaru Sundarapandia, the son by the first wife, claims a moiety. The two branches are divided, and there is no prospect of their reunion.

6. In consideration of the small amount of the pension, the large number dependent on it, and the poor circumstances of the family, the Collector recommends the continuance of Rupees 30 each to Satturappa Immudi Irabappa Naick and to Bungaru Sundarapandia Naick for the support of the branches of the family of which they are the respective heads.

7. Considering that it would be hard to make the family suffer on account of the neglect of the deceased to draw the pension, the Collector recommends that the share of the eldest son be continued in arrears from February 1871, the time of last payment to the deceased.

8. The share of Sundarapandia Naick has been paid up to January 1875, and it is proposed to continue it in arrears from that date.

9. The Board support the Collector's recommendations.
