I have no doubt that the test applies to all the Office in the Dept & clearly ought to be to enable the Head of the Office simply to know as occasion requires. I propose this application - the man joined the Dept after the rules were laid down & there are doubtless passed turn up

men in the office - Indeed Several have been named in anonymous petitions sent to me about this affair - There can be no doubt about the qualified men in the office

Proceedings of the Board of Revenue

Dated 4 February 1876.

N^o 134

From J. Hunter Blair Esq^r

Collector of Sea Customs Madras.

To H. C. Stokes Esq^r

Sec^y Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

Sir,

G. Venkatanaramiah sastri Accountant of this Office having been granted Furlough Leave for six months, I have appointed C.
Ranga Row, Accountant of the Madras Collectors Office, in his place

2. Rungu Row has been 15 years in the Government Service, and is well acquainted with the duties of the Account Department.

3. The Deputy Accountant General has taken objection to the appointment of Rungu Row, as he has not passed the Sea Customs Test, and under Government Order N^o 1037 of 17th August 1870 all appointments in the sea Customs House on R^o 50 and upwards, are subjected to the Revenue Test, Sea Customs Department. I am however, of opinion that this Rule was not intended to apply to Accountants.

Accountants, who have nothing whatever to do with Custom House work and only deal with accounts. They are only required to pass the Account Test and Precise Writing. Rungu Row has in addition to his own work to superintend the Trade Returns Department, where his time is so fully occupied, both before and after office hours, that he has no time to study for the sea Customs Test.

4. I have therefore the honor to request you will be good enough to obtain the sanction of Government to exempt him from passing the

The Sea Customs Test as a special case.
