No. 744.

MEMORANDUM.

THERE is little or no estimator's work done in the Office of the Chief Engineer for Irrigation, as the accuracy and calculations of estimates are not there checked in detail. The only men among the office employés capable of estimating are the draughtsmen, who are not more numerous than is necessary for current work, which work is now in arrears. In the Office of the Chief Engineer, Roads and Buildings, there are three draughtsmen and estimators, one of whom is absent on special duty and the others are overworked.

2. It is suggested, therefore, that the employment of estimators required in the Salem District for works under the Revenue Officers should be sanctioned in the Revenue Department, and probably certificated men will be obtainable by advertisement.
