Read the following Proceedings of the Madras Government, dated 9th March 1877, No. 995, Revenue Department :—

Abstract.—Approving Board's instructions regarding the remissions to be granted on the collection of land-revenue in the approaching Jammabandi, &c.

The Board respectfully beg that the meaning of the remark made by Government may be explained. They do not understand whether Government object to partial remissions, and think that all remissions should be total, or not granted at all. The Board think that partial remissions will be needed and suitable in a great many cases.

No. 877. ORDER THEREON, 28th March 1877, No. 1,255.

Land Revenue, No. 21.

THE Government were not at all objecting to partial remissions.

2. The differing circumstances of the ryots in any given village indicate an obvious argument against "percentage" remissions;—but no doubt, on the other hand, there are good arguments against attempts to make the remission in minute detail—which are disallowed by the existing rule on the subject.

FOR ORDERS.

Partial remissions are clearly necessary. The remark applies to forcentage remissions.
Ex. gr.:- In a smaller village there may be many ryots who have good wet holdings or perhaps only some dry land in their Pattah. Other Pattahs (generally small) have only dry land; a 50 per cent remission on the dry land included in the former is scarcely necessary, while in the latter case

It would scarcely suffice.
This is the objection to lump percentage remissions - but the matter may be left to Collections.
