Famine Relief.

Read the following paper :—

No. 215. Proceedings of the Board of Revenue, dated 1st May 1877.

Read the following letter from V. VENKATACHELLUM, Deputy Collector, Harpunhally Division, to J. H. MASTER, Esq., Collector of Bellary, dated Hospett, 14th April 1877, No. 207-F.

With reference to your memorandum of the 28th ultimo upon the G.O., dated 15th idem, No. 1,091, regarding weavers, I have the honor to enclose, for your orders, a copy of a letter, dated 12th instant, No. 72, from the Temporary Deputy Collector requesting to know whether advances might be made for fine cloths, &c. I think that advances are to be made to enable the weavers to provide them looms, and that they may be allowed to weave the cloths (whether fine or coarse) to which they are accustomed.

2. I beg to know whether security is to be taken from them for returning the money or cloths for it. If no security is required, every one will apply for a large advance which may be disproportionate to his estate.

ENCLOSURE No. 1.

From C. RAGHAVA ROW, Special Deputy Collector, to V. VENKATACHELLUM, Deputy Collector, Harpunhally Division, dated Hampasagur, 12th April 1877, No. 72.

With reference to G.O., No. 502, of 15th ultimo, I have the honor to state that weavers here manufacture cloths and silks of different description and value, as well as carpets, gunnies, and cumblies, either nice or coarse. I request to know if advances can be made for fine clothes, silks, and cumblies of high value, or should be confined to the coarse country cloths, which find ready sale from a mass of laboring class. Many weavers apply for advances for fine and valuable cloths and silks, and say that they are more accustomed to their manufacture than to the coarse country stuff, and that their looms are more suited to the former than to the latter.

Expecting early instructions, I have, &c.

To the Board of Revenue for orders as to whether advances may be made to silk weavers, as the sums required will be large.

(Signed) J. H. MASTER, Collector.

19th April 1877.

The Board leave the Collector discretion as to the kind of cloths to be woven and the persons to whom advances should be made. In the cases of large advances for valuable cloths security should be taken, and in every case an acknowledgment of the advance should be obtained. It is needless to say that advances should not be made to weavers in undoubtedly good circumstances.

ORDER THEREON, 10th May 1877, No. 1,689.

Miscellaneous.

If weavers who are accustomed to weave silken or fine cotton fabrics are in such distress as to need advances, there is no reason why they should not receive them.

No 207 B.

To The Collector of Bellary

Sir With reference to your memo of the 28th ultimo upon the Government order dated 15th ultimo No 1091, regarding advances, I have the honor to enclose for your orders a copy of a letter dated 12th instant No 12 from the General Deputy Collector requesting to know whether advances might be made for fire clothes &c. I think that advances are to be made to enable the weavers to provide them looms and that they may be allowed to wear the cloth (whether fine or coarse) to which they are accustomed.

2. I beg to know whether security is to be taken from them for returning the money or clothes for it. If no security is is required every one will apply for a large advance which may be disproportionate to his estate.
