GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

31st May 1877, No. 1,869-E.

Famine Relief.

Read the following paper:—

No. 641. From C. T. LONGLEY, Esq., Collector of Salem, to J. H. GARSTIN, Esq., Additional Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, Fort St. George, dated 15th May 1877, No. 275-1,493.

In reference to G.O., No. 1,091, dated 15th March last, I regret I have to trouble Government again by inquiring what is meant by the last clause of paragraph 1, whether by the words "the balance in favor of the weavers will then probably enable them to keep their looms at work so long as they are sure of Government purchasing their manufactures." Government mean that the advance of materials should be given once only, or that it should be repeated every time the materials advanced are worked up and the manufactures sold to Government. I believe the latter to be the intention of Government, although the wording of the Government Order seems to convey a different meaning. "The balance in favor of the weavers" will not enable them to purchase enough materials to put their looms again to work, but will be just sufficient to maintain them till the subsequent advance of materials is worked up and re-produced in cloths. This balance is generally equal to or less than the cooly, and in very few cases in excess of it. I request early instructions on the point.

No. 642. ORDER THEREON, 31st May 1877, No. 1,869-E.

Miscellaneous.

THE Collector has rightly understood the intention of Government.

2. After the adjustment of each advance a fresh advance of materials may be made.

From The Collector of Salem.

To The Additional Secretary
to Government. Rev. Secy.
Madras.

Sir, In reference to G. O. No. 2991 dated 15 March last, I regret I have to trouble Government again by inquiring what is meant by the last clause of para. 1. whether by the words "the balance in favor of the weavers will then probably enable them to keep their looms at work so long as they are

are sure of Government pur-
- chasing their manufactures," Government mean that the advance of materials should be given once only, or more or should be repeated every time the materials advanced are worked up and the manufac- tures sold to Government.

I believe the latter to be the intention of Government although the wording of the C. O. seems to convey a different meaning.
"The balance in favor of the Peasants" will not enable them to purchase enough materials to put their looms again to work, but will be just sufficient to maintain them till the subsequent advance of materials is worked up and re-produced in cloths. This balance is generally equal to or less than the cost, and in very few cases in excess of it.

I request early instructions on the point.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

FOR ORDERS.

Mr. Longley requests
 explanation of the meaning of the G. O. regarding advances to them.

He presumes that after
 of materials has been made an advance has been made and adjusted and the advance has been made - pointing out that the balance in the man's possession, after paying back to for: the cash advance first made to enable him to keep at work for a time, ^{at the cost of the farm} and he is sufficient to keep him alive till the next advance of materials has the adjusted I think less right, & that ^{the above} has the meaning of for: long the man is not as clear on the point as might have been wished.
 I suggest the table.
