Sir

Adjoining the District Jail at Chittoor and at a convenient distance from the town is a tank known by the name of Gangam, which is just now dry, but which when there is water in it, is of great use to the jail. The water in the well in which sinks as that in the tank diminishes and to

to the inhabitants of Groenapett, an adjacent suburb of Chittoor.
There is a considerable extent of cultivable lands below it, as but owing to the bank rarely holding a full supply the ryots very often are unable to cultivate all the lands forming the Ayacut. Being fully convinced that the putting of the bank into thorough order would prove of great benefit both to Government and to the inhabitants of Chittoor, I placed myself in communication with the District Engineer under whose orders a Plan and Estimate for the Excavation of a Channel to feed the Gangaveri

Gangaveri bank from the ⁴¹⁴⁰/₂ frequent floods that come down the Chittoor River, are now under preparation, and, I trust soon to lay them before the Board of Revenue for sanction, and, as, in the mean time, it was necessary to provide work for the labouring poor of Chittoor and its vicinity, who were clamouring for employment, I had an Estimate framed for the repair of the bank bund out of Relief funds which amounted to Rupees 1975 and the work was commenced some weeks back and advanced rapidly.
The amount of the Estimate has been expended, but additional

work is still required to the bund and sluice as suggested by Colonel Prendergast who hasly inspected with me the repairs of the bank bund and approved of all that has been done. A Supplemental Estimate has now been framed amounting to Rs 989. As the total amount (Rs 2964) of the original and supplemental Estimate exceeds that upto which I am authorized to sanction an Estimate, I have the honor to request that the Board will be pleased to accord their formal sanction to the repair of the Gaugawari bank

bank at an estimated cost of Rs 2964. $\frac{4148}{3}$

2. The two Estimates in question are herewith forwarded.
