GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

31st January 1877, No. 261.

Rules under Legislative Enactments.

Read the following paper:—

No. 157. From A. P. HOWELL, Esq., M.A., Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department (Judicial,) to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Fort William, 24th January 1877, No. 1—137.

Several legislative enactments contain special provisions for the issue of rules by Local Governments with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, and draft rules are constantly being submitted to the Government of India for this previous sanction. When the Government of India themselves frame rules of this description, it is their practice to take legal opinion as to whether the rules are strictly within the powers conferred by the Legislature, and are in proper form as regards wording and arrangement. I am to request that a similar course may always be adopted in Madras, and that, before submitting such rules for the sanction of the Governor-General, some other competent legal adviser may be consulted and the rules drafted in communication with him.

2. It would be a convenience if rules submitted for sanction under the provisions of any law were printed on half-margin.

No. 158. ORDER THEREON, 31st January 1877, No. 261.
