Transferred to the Bd of Rev
for disposal.

2 Mr Whiteside should have addressed the Bd if he thought the Talsord to blame in the matter of his famine accounts, and as to the misstatement of facts regarding P.W. Vouchers the Govt think the Coll^r might well have dealt with the matter at the time himself by imposing a fine on the Talsord.

3: What appears needed to bring up the accounts is constant supervision of the officers concerned.

No. 1692 of 1733

From The Col^l of N. BristolDated 22nd x 24/2 1879.

FOR ORDERS.

I have transferred the papers to the new W^o. for disposal and the W^o. H. H. have addressed them if he has got the T. H. & blame for ignorance of the position of work. but if the T. H. is not of the position of his acct. is correct & there is nothing on W^o.
 letters & I know that it is not so. for the T. H. would surely have felt in former times for the D^o. audit

There are 2 reports on the misconduct of the Jailor of Vellan in not being "on duty" in the matter of his famine acct. W.

Whitely has been fairly alarmed by Gov^t at the state of backwardness of the famine acct. in his D^o. & is now stirring up some of his D^o. - happening to visit the Vellan Jailor is intending to examine his famine acct. he found the T. H. unable to tell him anything at all about them in the absence of the Jailor himself and the Jailor that he had special charge of the famine acct. - W.

Whitely writes very

during about the Fall's light of day - in not knowing where to lay his hand on the
and which is? have than the information to Coll: wanted but don't suppose he is much more in the respect than most other Tahildars who have quite enough to do without interfering with the Zaly account
dept: who is speaking under the Zaly's is bad. If however the character given of the Tell by Mr Whitridge is true, his behaviour in private life seems to be so scandalous that for any feel inclined to take some notice
of it, after hearing what the Tell has to say if the facts are proved -
The second report of his Act: had been amplified at the Government. Many generally have confessed the complexion by himself for completion by the N.Y. - then the Tahildar Office does not appear to back out of the third world - This kind of violent episcopic trouble

does not go on - but is characteristic of Mr W. - If the attack importance to that he says occurred
a year or so ago
again in the Tell's private life - has
the last reported

it at the time.

The Tell's this story appears as regards
the P.H. vouchers might well have been drawn out by the Tell himself as remarked in the note. I think it possible there was some misapprehension by the man in his impression of the ~~Whitridge's story~~

There is enough against Whitridge to hang a dozen Tahildars. How can a Tahildar have been treated, if he had behaved about his house as Whitridge did, or if he had decided a case like that unfortunate P.H. case, if the judge came down upon?

I take no notice of all this wretched business - certainly not about the man's illegitimate children, which is now obvious, an old story, & can easily be explained - The mother being a dancing girl, the daughters were consecrated to the same (Choly) as natives but function - & in the present case, no doubt the Tahildar has a good deal to say for himself - P.H. 3/3/1 is in continuation of the first & contains as the denunciation by Mr W of the Tell as the teller of a falsehood in respect of an statement which he alleged he made to Mr W. which it is proved he did not make -

For this Mr Whitridge
when done will have fired him -
