 Sir,

I have the melancholy duty to inform you of the death of Mr.
 Henry Geoghegan aged 28 years on Wednesday the 28th Instant of Coup de soleil.

The deceased was an Assistant of the Geological Survey of India, and since the month of May 1857 had been engaged on the party under my charge in the Survey of this Presidency. On the morning of his decease Mr. Geoghegan left this Camp in Company with Mr. Charles Oldham apparently in his usual health, and proceeded to work as usual. They prepared to return shortly before ten o'clock and were within a quarter of a mile of the Camp when Mr.
 Oldham observed the deceased to stagger and look wildly, and on addressing him, found him to be delirious - Mr. Oldham assisted him into Camp where Mr. King and myself were already arrived, and with the aid of the Native Doctor Venkatachellum, we used all the means in our power to restore him to Consciousness, but unfortunately without success, and he sunk gradually and expired about 12 o'clock/noon -

The deceased was of very plethoric Constitution, and the weather being extremely hot and close, it appeared to me that, there was little chance of conveying the body into Trichinopoly, and procuring a coffin before decomposition commenced - I therefore had a grave dug on the camping ground, in which the deceased was interred at a quarter past 6 o'clock, the body being perfectly rigid and cold - The interment took place in the presence presence of Mr. Charles Oldham, Mr. King, myself and the Native Doctor, with the performance of the rites of the Church of England.

I have placed seals on the property of the deceased which shall be opened in the presence of the proper authorities in Trichinopoly, to which place I am now proceeding -

I have already communicated the circumstances of the death to the Registrar in Trichinopoly, and have taken measures to have the grave duly respected -

I have the honor to be Sir,
