to relieve him from the details of managing the business of the Revenue and Public Works Departments of the Government Office by assigning extra allowances to his subordinates. The revision of the Village and Talook accounts as also of the Salt accounts has been completed, and the forms for them together with Manuals containing instructions for their preparations have been circulated. The forms for Jummabundy and other returns to be furnished to the Board from the Collectors' Hoozoor have also been prepared and circulated. The Government now understand that much progress has been made by Jayaram Chetty in the revision of the Sea Custom accounts; and that in the meanwhile he has obtained temporary promotion in the Accountant General's Office. They however deem it expedient to continue the revision in the hands of Jayaram Chetty, because other persons will have to enquire into the details anew, while he has already mastered them; and they therefore authorize him to carry with him to the Accountant General's Office all the papers connected with the enquiry in question, and continue to conduct it.
