THE SECRETARY TO

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA,

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE,
AGRICULTURE, AND COMMERCE.

Miscellaneous.

of this Government on the question raised in paragraphs 11 and 12 of his despatch, No. 59, 25th January 1876, that before the subject could be fully discussed, the indications had shown themselves. Those indications have unfortunately been fully realised in the famine now prevailing throughout the greater portion of the Presidency.

2. Under such circumstances, His Grace the Governor in Council is of opinion that the present time is not one for discussing the solution of which must be affected by the results of the calamity which has befallen this Presidency and the measures to be taken to meet it. His Grace will, however, make the matter one of serious consideration and examination so soon as the propriety of suspending judgment in the present will readily commend itself to the Government of India.

SIR,—Referring to your letter, dated the 21st January 1876, No. 239, requesting an expression of the views of the Secretary of State in paragraphs 11 and 12 of his despatch, No. 59, 25th January 1876, I am directed to state that the indications of impending scarcity have unfortunately been fully realised in the greater portion of the Presidency.

His Grace the Governor in Council is of opinion that the present time is not one for discussing the solution of which must be affected by the results of the calamity which has befallen this Presidency and the measures to be taken to meet it. His Grace will, however, make the matter one of serious consideration and examination so soon as the propriety of suspending judgment in the present will readily commend itself to the Government of India.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

(sd) D. F. CARMICHAEL,
Offg. Chief Secretary.

1. The first step in the process of the development of a new product is the identification of a market need. This is often done through market research, which can be conducted in a variety of ways, including surveys, focus groups, and interviews. The goal is to understand what customers want and need, and to identify any gaps in the current market.
