No. 331. Read the following letter from R. H. HOLLINGBERY, Esq., Assistant Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department (Accounts), to the Hon. W. HUDLESTON, Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras, dated Fort William, 30th November 1876, No. 2,823 :—

I AM directed to request that, with the permission of His Grace the Governor in Council, you will be good enough to furnish to this department returns in the accompanying form illustrative of the increase of land-revenue in the Madras Presidency.

2. The statistics, it will be observed, are required for three fiscal years, viz., 1st, the fiscal year before the last revision of settlement or of ryotwar assessment; 2nd, the first complete fiscal year immediately after such revision; and, the latest fiscal year.

3. In the Bengal Presidency, it would embarrass a proper comparison of results, were the return to embrace the year 1856-57 or any earlier period, because territory was acquired in the interval between that year and 1861-62 by confiscations. Accordingly, for the Bengal Presidency, the year 1861 or 1862, as may be suited to the particular province, should be adopted for determining which are revised settlements: all settlements from that year inclusive should be regarded as revised settlements. For the Madras and Bombay Presidencies, the same year will be adopted in the main series; but, in addition, a supplemental series of the returns 1 to 4 should be submitted, bringing the information down to 1871 or 1872, in respect of settlements now current which were formed before that year. The statistics of land-revenue and cesses for the latest fiscal year should also be given in this supplementary series.

4. Districts in the Bengal Presidency, the settlement of which may not have been revised since 1860, should be entered in the returns in a separate section by themselves; and all districts should, as far as possible, be entered in the returns in the order of the dates at which the existing settlements will expire.

5. The revised settlements in provinces under village settlements, and the revised rates of assessment in localities under ryotwar settlements, are not introduced simultaneously in all the talukas or tehsils in a district. As the statements now required are to enable the state of the land-revenue demand (illustrated by the collections) before and after each revision of settlement or of assessment, the figures should be given separately for each year of the several portions of a district which come under settlement in the same year, whereby the sum of the totals for the several talukas or tehsils, though severally appertaining to different years, will give the correct district total for one complete fiscal year immediately before, and for one year immediately after the revision of assessment. A column is provided in the returns for distinguishing the dates or periods of the revision of settlement.

6. Where it is usual, as in the Bombay Presidency, to include the value of revenue-free lands in the settlements of land-revenue, any statistics relating to such lands should be given separately in a distinct column, and the amounts of such revenue should not be included in the total of Imperial land-revenue and cesses.

7. I am to express the hope that the transmission of the returns above mentioned immediately on their completion. I am further to request that a copy of the returns having been communicated to the Government of India may be soon after as practicable be favored with a review of the returns. It is desired to ascertain very roughly what likelihood there may be of an increase of land-revenue on the next revision of settlement, in any proportion approaching to that of the increase in the last revision, that is, if (putting aside casual disturbances by famine) the range of prices which has obtained in recent years is likely to continue or not to revert to those which obtained from 1865 to 1867. It would be useful to this end to separate in the review those portions of the increase of land-revenue, as apparent in the last revision of settlement, which were due to other causes than revision of rates of assessment and ordinary increase of cultivation. The Revenue Survey of a district has, in ryotwar provinces, brought to light concealed cultivation. It would materially help if the increase of land-revenue from this cause, which cannot recur on the same extensive scale in the next revision, could be approximately stated. Increases from acquisitions of territory from other provinces, or from Native States in exchange for territory made over to them in some other province, might also be distinguished.

The review might also be illustrated by a table showing for each district the areas, respectively, of cultivated and culturable land under land-tax in the year immediately preceding, and in the first complete year immediately following, the last revision of settlement; also the area of culturable land, not held revenue-free, but not taxed at the date of last revision. The areas should be stated in acres.

To

The Secretary to the Government of Bengal

Fort William, the 10th November 1870.

Sir,

I am directed to request that, in case the progress of the Survey and Settlement Operations in the Province under your Government will admit of the submission of the returns called for by this Department in the accompanying form illustrative of the increase of Land Revenue in the course of the last twenty years,

2. The statistics, it will be observed, are required for three fiscal years, viz., 1st, the fiscal year before the last revision of settlement or of ryotwar assessment; 2nd, the first complete fiscal year immediately after such revision; and 3rd, the latest fiscal year.

3. In the Bengal Presidency it would ensure a proper comparison of results, were the return to embrace the year 1850-51 or any earlier period, because territory was acquired or re-annexed between that year and 1861-62 by confiscations. Accordingly, for the Bengal Presidency, the year 1861 or 1862, as may be suited to the particular province, should be adopted for determining which are revised settlements: all settlements from that year inclusive should be regarded as revised settlements. For the Madras and Bombay Presidencies, the same year will be adopted in the same sense; but, in addition, a supplemental return of the returns I to 4 should be submitted, bringing the information down to 1871 or 1872, in respect of settlements now current which were revised before that year. The statistics of Land Revenue and Cesses for the latest fiscal year should also be given in this supplementary series.

4. Districts in the Bengal Presidency, the settlement of which may not have been revised since 1860 should be entered in the returns in a separate season for themselves; and all districts should, as far as possible, be entered in the returns in the order of the dates at which the existing settlements will expire.

5. The revised settlement in provinces under village settlement and the revised rates of assessment in territories under ryotwar settlement are not introduced simultaneously in all the talúks or tracts in a district. As the statements now required are wanted for ascertaining the state of the Land Revenue Demand illustrated by the settlement before and after each revision of settlement or assessment, the figures should be given separately for each aggregate of the several portions of a district which came under settlement in the same year, whether the sum of the totals for the several talúks or tracts, though severally appertaining to different years, will give the correct district total for one complete fiscal year immediately before, and for one year immediately after the revision of assessment. A column is provided in the returns for distinguishing the dates or periods of the revision of settlements.

6. Where it is usual, as in the Bombay Presidency, to include the value of revenue-free lands in the statements of Land Revenue, any statistics relating to such lands should be shewn separately in a distinct column, and the amounts of such revenue should not be included in the total of Imperial Land Revenue and Cesses.

7. I am to request the favor of the transmission of the returns above mentioned immediately on their completion. I am further to request that (a copy of the returns having been first transmitted), the Government of India may, as soon after as practicable, be favored with a review of the returns. It is desired to ascertain very roughly what likelihood there may be of an increase of Land Revenue on the next revision of settlement, in any proportion approximating to that of the increase in the last revision, that is, if (putting aside casual disturbances by famine) the range of prices which has obtained in recent years is likely to continue or not to revert to those which obtained from 1865 to 1867. It would be useful to this end to separate in the review those portions of the increase of Land Revenue, as apparent in the last revision of settlement, which were due to other causes than revision of rates of assessment and ordinary increase of cultivation. The Revenue Survey of a district has, in ryotwar provinces, brought to light concealed cultivation. It would materially help in the increase of Land Revenue from this cause, which cannot recur on the same excessive scale in the next revision, could be approximately settled. Increases from acquisitions of territory from other provinces, or from Native States in exchange for territory made over to them in some other province, might also be distinguished.

The review might also be illustrated by a table showing for each district the areas, respectively, of cultivated and of culturable land under land tax in the year immediately preceding, and in the last complete year immediately following the last revision of settlement, also the area of culturable land, not held revenue free, but not taxed at the date of last revision. The areas should be stated in acres.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

Secretary to the Govt. of India.
