No. 156. Read the following Resolution of the Government of India in the Financial Department (Accounts), dated Simla, 30th September 1876, No. 3209 :—

It having been noticed that balances of deposits in the Government Savings Banks are sometimes remitted to England for payment to parties entitled thereto, the Governor-General in Council considers it expedient to point out that by the Rules for the management of the Government Savings Banks every depositor or withdrawer is expected to transact business in person, and although, in the case of an individual unable to attend at the office, the rules allow the Secretary to exercise his discretion in paying to any person authorized by the absent depositor to receive the money on his behalf, yet, even in these excepted cases, payment is made at the office of the Savings Bank. The remittance, by a Government Savings Bank, of Savings Bank deposits to England or elsewhere is entirely unauthorized, and such remittances should not again be made.

Ordered that this Resolution be communicated, for information and guidance, to the Governments of Madras and Bombay, to the Comptroller-General, and several Accountants-General and Deputy Accountants-General in independent charge.
