No. 4,589.

Home Department, Simla, the 16th September 1867.

NOTIFICATION.

With reference to the Notifications dated 15th April 1862, Nos. 1,921 and 1,922, transferring the District of North Canara, with the exception of the Talook of Cundapoor, from the Presidency of Fort St. George to the Presidency of Bombay, the Right Honorable the Governor General in Council hereby notifies, for the information of all concerned, that the boundary between the Talooks of Cundapoor in South Canara, Madras Presidency, and Honore in North Canara, Bombay Presidency, has been defined as hereunder stated:—

"The Divitikal stream forms the boundary from the sea on the west up to the bridge across that stream on the main coast road, leading from Bhatkal to Baindur (a distance of about two miles). From the bridge southwards for about a quarter of a mile, the road itself is the boundary line. The line then turns east, leaving the road nearly at right angles, at a place marked by a boundary stone, and passing by a mound called "Bole-katte," situated a few yards to the east of the road, takes a north-easterly direction, following precisely the road or pathway leading to Kadab; and from a point on the said road, marked by a boundary stone south of "Kaval-katta," strikes south as far as another boundary stone set up 100 yards from the limits of a land called "Sarpana Mane," situated to the west. It then turns eastward, along the road leading to Nujji, and again turns south, proceeding in a straight line from a point where a boundary stone has been put up on the said road west of a spot called "Jetkana bana," until it meets the Sankadagoondy stream, at a place marked by a boundary stone. The line then follows the Sankadagoondy stream for above six miles due east, until the junction formed with it by the Hossoor nullah, which stream thence forms the boundary for about half a mile up to where it joins the trench called "Kallu-todu." This trench then forms the boundary for about half a mile up to the foot of a small hill, over which the boundary line is marked by stones; the line then passes between two mounds called 'Jodu-katte,' and leads up along the south side of a small ruined fort called "Korar-kote," situated on a hill just below the ghaut, and due west of a high peak on the ghaut called "Alletur," on the Mysore frontier, where it terminates."
