MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE MADRAS GOVERNMENT.

Read the following papers :—

From the Commissary General..... Here enter 22nd December 1866, No. 5298.
Report from the Contr. of Military Accounts ... ,, 22nd February 1867, B.

From the Deputy Commissary General, Madras, 22nd December 1866, No. 5298; to the Secretary to Government, Military Department, Fort Saint George.

No. 3805

With reference to paragraph 2 of the Order of Government, dated 2nd November 1866, I have the honor, in the absence of the Commissary General, to inform you that Doorgiah Naidoo was not a Commissariat Conicopoly, but the cart contractor for the march of Her Majesty's 18th Hussars from Bangalore to Secunderabad.

2. The necessary enquiries were made by the Executive Commissariat Officer, Bangalore, and from the enclosed explanation from Doorgiah Naidoo, it will appear that the supplies purchased for Her Majesty's 18th Hussars at Duddaloor were duly paid for.

From Captain W. Cole, Sub-Assistant Commissary General, 14th February 1867, No. 1550 ; to the Commissary General, Madras.

Your letter No. 6242, dated 11th February 1867.

States that only the two Purveyors named in the margin returned to Bangalore from Secunderabad with Her Majesty's 1st Dragoon Guards, and were discharged on the adjustment of their accounts.

Victualling Purveyor Narrainsawmy Naidoo.
Asst. Purveyor Ramasawmy Moodelly.

From Doorgiah Naidoo, Contractor, Bangalore, 28th November 1866 ; to the Assistant Commissary General, Bangalore.

I was the cart contractor of the 18th Hussars and 1st Dragoon Guards who proceeded from Bangalore to Secunderabad. On our way, we halted at Duddaloor one day, and then proceeded further. Two or three days after this, the Inspector of the said place, namely Duddaloor, sent his claim to the Commanding Officer for a certain amount, which he, the Inspector, alledged to be the value of certain articles purchased by one Messman Narrainsawmy, when the Regiment halted there. The Commanding Officer made enquiries, and found that no Messman by the name of Narrainsawmy followed the Regiment, and that all the servants and followers of the Regiment who purchased at that station paid and produced receipts in proof of the same. The Commanding Officer having been satisfied with this enquiry, replied to the Serjeant on the subject. But the Inspector now sends the same claim against me, though he, on the former occasion alluded to, distinctly stated to the Commanding Officer that one Messman by name Narrainsawmy owed him the money.

Moreover, if any purchase had been made by me, it was paid for then and there ; and in proof of the payment of all the articles purchased, the Havildar in charge of the advance guard, has produced a receipt, and fully proved before the Commanding Officer when he inquired into the matter. If I owed him any money, he would have claimed it then and there.

Under the above explanation, it is quite evident that the Inspector has no right, nor any reason, to advance this claim now against me.

With report from the Controller of Military Accounts, 22nd February 1867, B.

Order, No. 930, 14th March 1867.
