The pett. states as follows:-

Five mountain streams Palamankaraya, Chinthalankaraya, and Kanagalankaraya, which severally take their source about 20 miles off Konarolu, meet near that village and run as a single channel Diwulakeru. This channel contains water only for 6 months in the year. It does not feed any South or private water course, but joins the Gunsola Kanuna river which runs to the sea. The ryots of the petti village have obtained permission to pay dry rate of assessment for the lands irrigated by the aid of the above streams Chinthala and Kanagala. They have excavated tanks which are fed by those streams. The water that runs in the streams is the surplus that remains after the irrigation of the lands referred to above. In 1869 the petti constructed a dam across the Palamani stream and was permitted by the Head Assh Colln. to pay dry rate of assessment for the lands he may cultivate under it. On the strength of this order the petti spent about Rs 2000 in making the lands fit for cultivation. In the 1887 Tirwajasti was unjustly imposed on the above lands. The petti. therefore protested against this to the Dy Colln. who issued order No. 187 of 1888 (subsequently unfavourable to the petti). Against this this order the pet. appeales to the Co. Clr. who states that the Collr. had already - 2 years ago - passed orders in favour of the imposition of the waterrate that this order has not been set aside by any competent authority & was therefore in force, that the Dy Collrs order was passed in accordance with the above order. Under these circumstances the Collr. declines to interfere. Against this the pet. appeales to the Board and says that all to no purpose. Some time ago tirwa basti was imposed on the lands of one Chekuri Narayanappa who, like the pet. constructed a dam and irrigates them. Lately the tirwapatti on his lands was cancelled. The pet. prays that a similar concession may be granted to him. If this is not feasible he prays to be informed as to which authority he should apply to for the recovery of the loss which will accrue to him in consequence of the unjust order of the lower courts & the matter.
