The first of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable currency. The value of the dollar has fallen to such an extent that it is no longer possible to maintain a stable exchange rate. This has led to a loss of confidence in the dollar and a consequent loss of business. The second of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable budget. The deficit has increased to such an extent that it is no longer possible to maintain a stable budget. This has led to a loss of confidence in the government and a consequent loss of business.
 The third of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable foreign policy. The United States has been unable to maintain a stable relationship with the Soviet Union. This has led to a loss of confidence in the government and a consequent loss of business.

Re: Question I (e) of the Humble C. Vijayaraghavan
In answer to Question No. I asked at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 9th February last, the Hon. C. Vijayaraghavan was informed as follows:—
“The Govt has no information on the subject”.
He now asks whether the necessary information has since been obtained and if so requests that the papers may be placed on the table.
It will be seen from the notes under Qo. No 1314 of 2-3-97 (Hessed 4) that at the time the reply was given there was no intention of calling for any information on the subject.
For orders as to whether the information should now be obtained or whether the following reply may be given.
“Govt” considers that it is
