Sir

Adverting
According to Board's Proceedings No. 394

dated 4th December 1896, received with Collector's Dis
No. 4619 dated 12th December 1896, I beg to say that at present there seems to be no necessity for our giving relief to the Korigi weavers. The rain of November has produced a change in the prospects at least the merchants are making advances though at somewhat reduced rates. The Reddi of Hosigi caused a tom-tom to be beaten in the town calling upon those, who needed relief, to call at his chavadi and there register their names. Only a few weavers appeared and registered 23 looms. The Reddi and the Revenue Inspector there went house to house. It would appear that no one seems to care for our assistance. They were indifferent and when pressed, listlessly said "register one loom". This loom, amongst others is working. This shows that the weavers do not now want our help.

2. Day before yesterday evening, I sent for some of them and told them that the Board's orders to give them aid in their own craft had been received. They wanted to know what our rates are. After hearing me, they said that they are not adequate "to fill their stomachs" and seemed to be indifferent. I do not think we would be justified, under the existing circumstances, to employ a costly establishment. The owners of the 23 looms, who appeared at the village chavadi, are men without character. They have no

They and some other weavers, who are unable to get advances, live by selling in villages raw chillies, greens, sugarcane and a preparation with the oil-cake.

3. I told the weavers that we would be prepared to give them work when they actually needed it. I told the Reddi and the Revenue Inspector to watch the condition of the weavers and report at once when any change for the worse took place.

4. The number of weavers registered by the Reddi after house-to-house visit is 127, of which 80 are still working.

The list received from the Revenue Inspector is enclosed.

I beg to remain
