DATED 12th JUNE 1897.

If the three "days" referred to in the letter from the Government of Madras, dated the 30th of April 1897, No. 1 Revenue, be taken to mean three days and nights to which the scale of 16/- per diem would be applicable under the Inland Revenue regulations, the subsistence allowance in each case would be £2. 8. 0 which, with the sum of £5. 9. 6, the return first class fare between London and Edinburgh, would make a total of £7. 17. 6 due to each Officer, The equivalent of these sums would be issued to the Officers in India, but there is no occasion for it to "be remitted" to that Country.
