in April the sum was 26.02 and that in July 21.45 lakhs. That in August must, if any thing, be more than the latter figure, so that the expenditure in April to August must be more than 70 lakhs: and then we have September and part of October. Thus it is almost certain that the expenditure in 1897-8 will considerably exceed the Finance Commr's estimate of 77.7 lakhs.
