Where is the memo sending the machine to the Typewriters Head Quarters Office for repair?

(P. 12 March 11)

vide Our No 59 put up 15-3-97

With reference to the asstt Secy's note enquiring the nature of the repairs executed for the "Hammond" Typewriter, it is submitted that the machine was sent to the P. W. workshop for repairs being made in its hammer which was not moving properly and it was returned. the hammer being set right. But within two days after the machine was returned, the Carriage, when on work, stopped all on a sudden and refused to move and subsequently the hammer too went out of order.

Then according to the Under Secretary's directions, the machine was sent for further repairs to the Bombay Typewriters Head Quarters (Madras Branch) which Completely executed their

Whether the machine requires any repairs now, the Ordy office will say as it has been in use there.

I don't think the machine requires any repairs, but the Asst clerk will be able to say.

13 January

The Machine was out of order a few days ago but I had it set right by a local repairer who has paid right annual visit.
