READ—the following papers:—

Inspection notes of J. HANNAN, Esq., Superintending Engineer, II Circle, for February 1898.

* * * * *

21*st.*—Inspected Taluk Cutcherry (at Kavali).

Old Native building built in Native Choultry style.—Low and dark. Little court inside intended for light and air, occupied by the treasury room. Accommodation quite inadequate especially as regards records; altogether about as bad a specimen of the cutcherry of the old style as I have seen. A new cutcherry badly required indeed. Treasury room not safe, people doing business have to come inside and treasury might be rushed. The following new buildings have been built in the compound; all crowded together: sub-jail, cook house, latrine, Sub-Registrar's office; and outside the compound a ryot's shed, but intended for a latrine. The materials of all these buildings including the stone which is cut-laterite could be utilized in a new cutcherry.
