Subd: That it would be better if the order were commd. to the Accl. Sect. & to the Supt. of Stationery thro' the Financial Dept. An addition might perhaps be made to para 1 instructing the Off. to ensure that similar local purchases are not made in future. As regards the gum supplied to the Treasury Deputy Collector, rule 33 of the Stationery rules does not appear to have been observed. This might be pointed out in the order.

made by the local officers concerned as the articles were urgently required before the receipt of the fresh supply intended for from the Stationery office. As regards the purchase of blue pencils and gum, the Principal Assistant Collector and the Deputy Tahsildar of Ganjam state that they were not aware that the local purchase of the articles was opposed to the provisions of the Civil Account Code while the Treasury Deputy Collector points out that the supply of gum received from Stationery office was so dirty that he considered it
