I think this Report should be consulted before grants for Revenue works are withdrawn. There may sometimes be weighty departmental reasons to be urged; & it may be possible to substitute a less necessary work for one more urgently needed.

Note for the Revenue Department

There is no objection to the Revenue Department being consulted unofficially before grants for works pertaining to that Department are withdrawn, but such consultation appears to be unnecessary, as no surrenders are accepted in the P. W. Department, unless Superintending Engineers prove to the satisfaction of Government that it is impossible to utilise the grants, and as the withdrawal of allotments in such cases cannot be stopped even though the Revenue Department may consider that the works from which the surrenders are made are urgent.

2. In regard to provision of funds for new works, it will be well to obtain the opinion of the Revenue Department, as that Department will be better able

able to decide which of the works are urgently needed and which can be postponed, and this procedure will be followed, in future, if decided advisable.

Say

In the circumstances stated by the P.W.D there seems to be nothing to be gained in Rev: seeing proposals for withdrawing grants; but the question of recovering grants might be suggested to come for remarks to
