Appendix to B. P. No. 3622, dated 20.10.84. (U. P. O. 5047 his 14-11-84)		In the year 1854 Paramai Varambali assigned a portion of his way to Anantha Kella for supplying the cattle of Brahmanas with water. The land was enjoyed by Anantha Kella till it was resumed by Government and a money allowance was fixed in lieu thereof. Subsequently Anantha Kella gave up the charity and the allowance was paid to Shivappa Varambali who undertook to keep the service. On the death of Shivappa Varambali the allowance was continued to his eldest son Subraya Varambali, who subsequently applied for a portion of the allowance between himself and his two brothers. Thereafter, 1/3 share of the allowance was paid to each of the three brothers. On the death of Subraya Varambali his share of the allowance viz Rs 1-12-5 was transferred to his widow Nagamma and to balance Rs 3-8-9 to Mayjunatha Varambali who is now dead. On the death of Nagamma her share was transferred to the name of Rangai Varambali who transferred his right to the share to Paramanatha Bhatta and he was registered as Mudanar (vide G.O. No. 466, Res. 20795).		Grant for supplying the cattle of Brahmanas with water in a stone trough. Mayjunatha Varambali is a descendant of the original grantor and is not related to the original grantee.

The family owned landed property assessed at Rs 25-14-3 besides an annual credit of Rs 8-5-4.	The Inam is of a permanent nature. (vide para 9 of G.O. No. 2164 Res, dated 13.9.67) The deceased was governed by the Hindu Law of succession. He has transferred his right to the Inam by a registered will to Narasimha, No. 8, 2nd son of No. 2, and has authorised Narasimha's father Krishna Adiga to receive the Inam during his son's minority. Krishna Adiga is reported to be performing the services attached to the Inam. The widow of the deceased as also Nos. 2, 3 and 4 consent to the Inam being continued to Narasimha according to the deceased Mudanar's will. Only No. 5 objects and wants a portion to be registered in her name. The objection does not seem to be justified to any weight. I recommend that Krishna Adiga may be authorised to receive the share during the minority of his son Narasimha and be paid the arrear allowance for Rs. 1306.

 13 March 1898

(D. ...)

Read tabular report from the Collector of South Canara, Ref. No. 14 dated 9th March 1898.

(C. No. 2103 of 1898).

Note.

In the current read above, the Collector of South Canara reports that Manjunatha Varamballi who was in receipt of an ^{annual} allowance of Rs. 3.- 8 - 9 (for the purpose of supplying the cattle of Brahmavar in the Udipi taluk with water) is now deceased, that he has transferred his right to the allowance by a registered will to Narasimha his grandson (daughter's son) aged 10 and has authorised Krist^{na} Adiga, Narasimha's father, to receive the allowance during his son's minority. The Collector therefore recommends that (i) that the allowance be registered in the name of Narasimha, the grandson of the deceased.

Cash payment of Rs. 3-8-9.

In the year Saunva Parami Varamballi assigned a portion of his wage to Anantha kolta for supplying the cattle of Brahmanavar with water. The land was enjoyed by Anantha kolta till it was resumed by Government and a money allowance was fixed in lieu thereof; subsequently Anantha kolta gave up the charity and the allowance was paid to Shevappa Varamballi who undertook to keep up the service. On the death of Shevappa Varamballi, the allowance was continued to his eldest son Subraya Varamballi who subsequently applied for a division of the allowance between himself and his two brothers. Thereafter one-third share of the allowance was paid to each of the three brothers. On the death of Subraya Varamballi his share of the allowance, viz., Rs. 1-12-5, was transferred to his widow Nagamma and the balance Rs. 3-8-9 to Manjunatha Varamballi, who is now dead. On the death of Nagamma, her share was transferred to the name of Rangai Varamballi who transferred his right to the inam to Padmanabha Bhatta and he was registered under G.O., No. 464, Revenue, dated 20th July 1895.

Grant for supplying the cattle of Brahmanavar with water in a stone trough¹.

Manjunatha Varamballi is a descendant of the original grantor and is not related to the original grantee.

Out of the total allowance of Rs. 6-3-2 granted on account of the charity, a portion worth Rs. 3-8-9 was enjoyed by the last holder, and the other Rs. 1-12-5 is being enjoyed by Padmanabha Bhatta under G.O., No. 464, Revenue, dated 20th July 1895.

The family owns landed property assessed at Rs. 26-14-3 besides an annual tasdik of Rs. 8-5-4.

The inam is of a permanent nature (vide paragraph 9 of G.O., No. 2164, Revenue, dated 13th September 1867). The deceased was governed by the Hindu law of succession. He has transferred his right to the inam by a registered Will to Narasimha, No. 8, second son of No. 2, and has authorised Narasimha's father Krishna Adiga to receive the inam during his son's minority. Krishna Adiga is reported to be performing the services attached to the inam. The widow of the deceased as also Nos. 2, 3 and 4 consent to the inam being continued to Narasimha according to the deceased inamdar's Will. Only No. 5 objects and wants a portion of the inam registered in her name. The objection does not seem to be entitled to any weight. I recommend that Krishna Adiga may be authorised to receive the inam during the minority of his son Narasimha and be paid the arrear allowance for fall 1306.
