The letter does not deal expressly with neutral missionaries but is decidedly against general prohibitions. In any case the embargo against Swedish missionaries cannot be maintained for long without causing diplomatic difficulties and possibly retaliation. Perhaps it would be more politic to remove the embargo before we are forced to rather than after.

Sir,

I have the honour by direction of my Committee to bring to your notice the great need that is felt on the part of the Church of Sweden Mission for additional missionaries to be sent out from Sweden. Certain members of the Mission have gone home for a much needed furlough. Through the internment and repatriation of Missionaries belonging to the Leipzic Lutheran Mission additional responsibilities have been laid upon the Church of Sweden Mission. The Mission has represented to this Committee the great need for reinforcements and has indicated that a number of missionaries in Sweden are ready to come to India if the Government is prepared to allow them to land here. This Committee is not able to pronounce judgment in any way upon the suitability or otherwise of the missionaries whose names have been given to us, but I am directed to ask if the Government of Madras would be pleased to grant permission for such missionaries from Sweden as may be deemed satisfactory by the British Minister in Sweden, to come to South India for Missionary work. We very earnestly desire to press this upon the
