It will appear from the remarks in Col 20, that the Inam is not in the family of the grantee, the alienation could not be traced to the present holders - With the deed of mortgage Ramkhan the ancestor of Nos (1 to 3) has delivered to the father of No (5) 2 Maratha deeds (likewise mortgage bonds). The first of them is dated 1806 [illegible] in favor of one Setu Rao - it was drawn [illegible] Ananda Rao for consideration of Pags. 75 lent to him & payable within 15 yrs - The other is dated 1809 & was executed by the first **

Do. grantee is likewise unknown. The deed [illegible] shows that it is the second of the kind executed in 1833 by the same individual but on behalf of the [illegible] father of No 5 adjusting the former account [illegible] a sum of Rs 270 was struck as the balance for future liquidation within the course of the second of 10 yrs with interest at 12% per annum. The deed likewise [illegible] for the [illegible] of repairs [illegible] the [illegible] sale of the property itself [illegible] must be kept up & closed at the end of the limited term -

 mortgagee (Setu Rao) in favor of one Sarwana [illegible] Sastri — It is not known how the property passed from the last named individual into the hands of Rama Rao & Subba Rao, the recent mortgagers of the property - It is alleged that [illegible] the grandsons of the brother of [illegible] Ananda Rao the orig. mortgager [illegible] Whatever may have been the precise relationship between, it is clear that the property came into the possession of the present family upwards of 55 years ago ***

There is an inconsistency it will be observed between the Register of 1810 & the Accounts, the former making out the Inam to have descended by inheritance the latter to have been acquired by gift - The Inamdar himself asserts that it was a gift & I believe the difference is immaterial in this case - At any rate
