This Inam was originally Archaka manyam (Tarapadi [illegible]) but it subsequently appears as Iswara Inam in the Hindu copy of the Daul account. The Hindu copy of the latter account & the Regr. of F. 1268 contain a repetition of the orig. entry in the Tarapadi [illegible]. The land is not cultivated annually. The service has ceased to be performed for 10 or 15 years. The zemindar of the village [illegible] revived the service 4 days ago [illegible] xx x to that effect has been received from the Archaka to whom a reference has been made. The pagoda being in good order & the worship revived I as a special case recommend the confirmation of the Inam to the Pagoda so long as it is well maintained. 30/10/61 A. Ramachandra D.C.
