

On the request of the ruler for the extension of his lease for another period of 25 years the Collector submitted statements showing the extent of Inam and Jagir lands in the village, the Inam Abolished headed thus: "Statement showing the Village Manyam and Ineras &c. fixed and delineated from the Land Revenue account of the village as per Board's letter under date 4th October 1819." To these we have undoubtedly proofs that the Inams brought upon this village were delineated from the revenue accounts to which now the Inams ^{are} have since been made permanent by the Collector in July 1849 with the permission of Govt. and that they are older than any others. That this was ^{is} sufficient to support the absence of previous Inam accounts and that the Inams came into existence in that year and not during the years 1764 to 1782 in which case they are now null and void.

I think this course is consonant with justice and with the spirit of the Inam Rules
