... There is an important source of irrigation. The Mahabharata says that the whole land is watered in Dharma's name. ...
... as the Government says for the better portion. This is not true, most of the lands sown are watered annually. ...
... security of water. The Government portion is not in prosperous state. ...
... portion of the land is not known. ...
... security of water is felt generally. The average revenue of the Government portion is not known. ...
... the income, as some of the Pargana's principal servants who hold lands are unwilling to show the real accounts of income. ...
... estimates the average rates of assessment of the neighbouring Government lands that are settled on sharing system. ...
... Government of Madras and Rameswari & Government of Rameswari are at 1/10 per acre. ...
... statement of the Mahabharata are 132 Rs per acre. This is not true. ...
... an influential one. What more is required for good village. Dry lands also are a reference quality as it is seen from the rates levied on the Government ...
... of half village. But as the revenue of the Government is to be stationary for ever, the lands must be charged moderately. ...
... fertility of soil &c, I give the valuation of the village as follows:

Register No 502
Sheet No 564

Wet 74 acres; in consideration of the full water & whole area of the lands full water & time; at 3 Rs per acre = 222
Dry 58 acres at 1 Rs per acre = 58
Total = 280

These changed Dry lands at 1 Rs per acre & in consideration of full water & whole area - & in consideration of the Government that the Government says for Rameswari only on full water lands while the Mahabharata will have 1/10, and in other lands are full water must - & again the rates in the Government villages are charging for the improvement of full water if the Government raises the rate, large extent of land will be brought under plough.

In consequence of Chakram. Such lands having divided themselves into parties the above villages were taken under attachment in July 1895. From their annual proceeds, the Chakram is to be restored and the charity is to be done. The contract of the village who gave a deputation without any consent to restore the Chakram will be made. This was prepared because the proceeds now in hand are insufficient to complete the work.
After proceeding the fund the work is to be begun. If the villages were to be taken into revenue before that on permission of the Deputy Collector, it is only the money for some of the harvesters.
