

222 Respecting the
 geology
 of the country, I have been informed by the geologists, that the whole of the country is composed of a single mass of granite, and that the only difference is in the position of the strata. The strata are all of the same age, and are all of the same composition. The only difference is in the position of the strata. The strata are all of the same age, and are all of the same composition. The only difference is in the position of the strata.
