(Valuation) Well lands depend upon one Tank of large size. It is in repair. It is fed by a Jungle Stream & by the water of the River. The lands of the Damarasam & those of the village are contiguous to each other. The Tank is not filled annually. The fertility of the land is not good generally. The lands are of a superior quality generally. They are full water annually in fact. The lands are full water annually 2 times. No Tank is raised in the Village. The Tank of the River Village is fed by the water of the River. The Village is in a flourishing state. If the sluice of the River is open, water will come into the Damarasam fields with much force unless it is prevented by raising strong ridges. Hence the Damarasam lands have no want of security of water. The average value assessed of the contiguous village of Nandakachi is at 40 Rs. per acre calculated on an average of 15 years previous to 1820. This amount is very low compared with the fertility of the village of Nandakachi. I consider that there is some mistake in the calculation of the average. The average account was furnished by the Revenue. The average income of the Village as per statement of the Mahajanams is 63 Rs. per Annam. This is not true. The average income of the Village varies from 10 to 50 Rs. per acre. In consideration of the fertility of soil & of the value of the Village as follows -

Well 1/4 at 60 Rs. per acre - 1878

Dry 2. acres - at 10 Rs. per acre - 20

II No talk over about the Area or about the bono canis on the part of the Range Valued. The bono canis now entered in the revenue account correspond to those in the accounts of H 268 Hence the 135 acres 870 futs brought on the Register is are confirmed here as the area of the entire Village - The bono canis of the entire Village or those of the half Village of the huttenum portion are not given in the Patta - relating to the huttenum - The average income of the entire Village as per statement of the Revenue is 108 Rupees - ~~per annum~~ This is regular & not fair estimate of the huttenum - The average income of the entire Village at 200 Rupees per annum.

As per acct of H 1944.
